NEW DEAL VS. CONSTITUTION IS 1936 FORECAST

Voters to Determine Which Survives.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The paramount issue of the approaching presidential election is being shaped by the increasing evidence that the New Deal is unconstitutional.

There is every reason to believe that by next June the Supreme court will have held invalid a vast amount of additional New Deal legislation, including the principal institutions created to usher in the new economic and social order envisaged by President Roosevelt. It will have been established that the regimentation of industry and agriculture by the central government in contravention of state rights and the erection of a system of state socialism are prohibited by the constitution under which our form of government has developed.

Which Will Survive Is Question.

The question which the people will then be called upon to decide at the polls is whether the constitution is to give way to the New Deal or the New Deal to the constitution. The people will render the verdict in the case of the New Deal versus the constitution.

President Roosevelt will seek reelection with the understanding that if he be returned to office it will be to carry into effect his recent proposal to so change the form of government as to clothe the federal government with paramount power over every kind of enterprise and legalize the collectivistic and paternalistic undertakings constituting the New Deal. The Republicans and conservative Democrats will call for his defeat as the most effective means of putting an end to the costly experiments in state socialism and of restoring constitutional government.

Written Law Halts Its Progress.

As a result of the reverses the administration has sustained up to date in the courts the President and even the most visionary members of the brain trust are beginning to apprehend that the New Deal is incompatible with our scheme of government. It could be readily developed by a dictatorship or by a government the supreme laws of which are its acts of parliament, but not by a federal republic with a written constitution.

In pursuance of their theory that the New Deal is suffering from judicial interpretation by holdover Republican judges the New Dealers were quick to point out that the rulings against the AAA and the PWA last week were by two Republican Circuit judges in each case, with one Democratic judge dissenting.

By virtue of the fact that the Republican party has been in power 32 out of the last 40 years, a large majority of federal judges were appointed by Republican Presidents. But the charge of political partisanship on the bench is not easily sustained.

Court Overrules G. O. P. Judge.

In the AAA case the Appeals court overruled a Republican district judge who had held the processing taxes constitutional, and in the unanimous Circuit court decision upholding the TVA a Republican judge joined with three Democratic associates. Mr. Roosevelt created a furor in the 1932 campaign by asserting that the Supreme court is controled by the Republicans, but in the three unanimous Supreme court decisions the three Democratic justices joined six Republicans in ruling against the administration.

The President would remodel our form of government to make it fit the New Deal either by amendment of the constitution or by some other means at which he mysteriously hinted in the famous Friday press conference.

Expects More Defeats.

Mr. Roosevelt, who was almost the first to point out that the Supreme court decision destroying the NRA renders doubtful the constitutionality of the AAA, the TVA, the securities act and other New Deal legislation, is fully prepared for further defeats when the court reassembles in October. In fact he is pursuing a course calculated to produce a dramatic showdown between the New Deal and the Supreme court on the eve of the national election. He is fairly hurling legislation of doubtful constitutionality at the court, as if to challenge the tribunal to flout him, at the risk of sealing its own doom or to create a situation calculated to rally to his support powerful elements of the electorate affected by adverse court decisions.

Open to serious question of constitutionality are the Wagner labor disputes act, the social security legislation, the banking bill, the amendments

Flyer Plans 6,250 Mi. Nonstop Trip.

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP)—The commander of the military air field announced tonight Sigmund Levaneffsky, noted soviet pilot, is scheduled to take off tomorrow morning on a flight across the north pole to San Francisco.

SIGMUND LEVANEFFSKY.

Airport attendants were hurriedly completing final preparations at the airport. Levaneffsky will be accompanied by Victor Levchenko, who will be the navigator.

Moscow Is Excited.

Excitement spread rapidly through the capital as the hour for the takeoff of the 6,250 mile nonstop flight neared.

[The longest sustained distance flight ever made was that of Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos of France in August, 1933, when they flew 5,657 miles from New York to Rayak, Syria. John Polando and the late Russell N. Boardman, Americans, flew 5,011 miles from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, in July, 1931.]

It was understood Levaneffsky, his Co-Pilot Baibukoff, and Navigator Levchenko, were supervising final arrangements for the flight at an unrevealed airport near Moscow.

Secrecy surrounding the specifications of the polar ship led to it being called a "mystery" plane, but it was learned definitly the craft is an "Ant Twenty-five" designed by A. N. Vupalov, constructor of the Maxim Gorky, who recently returned from a journey to America.

The monoplane is freakish in appearance with long, narrow wings set low on the fuselage, which is short. The landing wheels are placed widely apart. It is equipped with radio.

Plan Weather Depot at Pole.

The purposes of the polar flight, it was learned today, include preparations for the establishment of a weather observatory on the north pole, and an attempt to prove the feasibility of rapid contact with America via the transarctic route.

Levaneffsky, who recently pronounced his ship in "perfect condition" for the flight, said he expected the trip to take 60 to 72 hours.

The soviet flyers achieved international prominence in 1933 when he flew to rescue James J. Mattern, American round the world flyer, who was forced down on the frozen wastes of Anadir.

Get Permit to Fly Over Alaska.

Experts here estimated the ship is an excellent endurance machine. The ship is not particularly speedy, according to observers, speed having been sacrificed for fuel capacity.

The airmen have been granted permission by the United States government to fly over Alaska and by the Canadian government to fly over Canadian territory.

The announcement that the soviet government is making preparations for establishment of a weather observatory on the north pole was made by Otto U. Schmidt, head of the northern sea route department.

"The time is quite near when planes will be able regularly to supply observatories and expeditions with food and equipment," he said. "This makes it possible to establish observatories on fixed portions of ice, with one at the pole itself. The scientific personnel can be left there for shifts of a year. The polar observatory will give daily radio predictions of the weather and report the air currents. It will also measure the depths of the ocean and study ocean life to check the laws of ice motion."

Icebreakers Take Positions.

Polar reports will serve as a basis of prediction of weather all over the soviet union as well as for other lands, he asserted.

Veering left after he crosses the pole, the soviet flyer will fly over a part of the arctic never before explored, now a blank spot on the maps. Radio stations aboard soviet icebreakers in arctic waters and northern shore stations of both the soviet union and America will endeavor to keep in contact with the plane.

EXCURSION BOAT RUNS ON ROCKS; 110 ABOARD ARE BROUGHT ASHORE

New London, Conn., July 21.—(AP)—The 110 passengers and part of the crew of the excursion steamship Yankee were removed by the coast guard tonight as she ran onto rocks at the mouth of the New London harbor in a dense fog.

Although first reports said 250 passengers were aboard, coast guard officials said all had been taken off when the 110 reached shore.

Some members of the crew remained aboard to aid in attempts to float the vessel at high tide. Two patrol boats of the coast guard effected the rescue.

Soon after the ship struck the rocks just off the New London light, the fog lifted and rescue operations began speedily.

Sister Killed; Fear Brother Drowned Self

Grand Haven, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—Crews of state police, coast guards and deputy sheriffs vainly dragged Spring lake today for the body of Doan Winslow, 27 years old, formerly of Wilmette, Ill. Members of his family said they were convinced the young man committed suicide while grieving for his sister, Helen, 19, who was killed in the crash of the family automobile early this morning while the two were returning from a dance.

Helen Winslow's body was found at the junction of U. S. route 31 and Spring Lake road, two miles north of Grand Haven, a short distance from the wrecked automobile.

Find Liquor in Car.

Apparently the car struck a telephone pole while traveling at high speed and Miss Winslow was catapulted from the machine, striking her head on the pavement as she fell. A bottle of liquor was found in the car.

Winslow and his sister were the children of Arthur D. Winslow, FERA administrator for Ottawa county.

Doan's absence from the accident scene was at first attributed to injuries that might have dazed him. Later it was discovered that a man's tracks led to the edge of Spring lake, several hundred feet from the scene of the crash. A collar found floating in the lake was identified as Doan's.

J. Bolthouse, a trucking company head, who lives near the scene, told of seeing a man moving about near the automobile and crying the name "Helen." The man lit a cigaret, then started in the direction of the lake, Bolthouse said.

Father Sure He's Dead.

"I'm certain Doan is in the lake," his father said. "He and Helen were inseparable. The shock of her death and the injuries he must have received undoubtedly affected his mind. I'll lead the search myself tomorrow."

Mrs. Winslow refused to abandon hope for her son. At her insistence parties continued to search the surrounding countryside long after darkness halted the lake search, in the faint hope that Doan might still be wandering in delirium.

The Winslows moved here six years ago from Wilmette, Ill., where they lived for many years. Mr. Winslow was a dry goods manufacturers' agent in Chicago. Helen attended the Wilmette public schools. Two weeks ago she was graduated from a business school in Muskegon. Doan attended New Trier and Senn High schools, was graduated from the Onarga [Ill.] Military academy in 1927 and was to have completed his forestry studies at Michigan State college in Lansing next fall.

M'CUTCHEON IN THE AIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 21.—Miami society visits the lovely Pan-American Airways port to see the planes arrive like the home folks used to visit the depot to see No. 6 come in. They park in crowded luncheon parties on the balconies.

At 8:30 a. m. today we took off. There were eight passengers, including a mother and her 2 year old child. The perils of flying were discounted by the baby much as the dangers of descending into the Grand Canyon are by an old lady on a mule. It was a beautiful day. When the plane shot through a fat cloud it shook itself like a dog ridding itself of moisture.

We landed at Havana, but transit passengers were not allowed to leave the station. We reached Cienfuegos, Cuba, in a tropical cloudburst and crossed to Jamaica. Over the mountains tremendous cloud masses were banked solidly.

Jamaica is one of the world's loveliest islands. No wonder the pirates, who loved beauty in islands as well as in their lady captives, selected it as a headquarters!

Here Henry Morgan started his piratical career as public enemy No. 1. He captured Panama and by double-crossing his associates escaped with their share of the loot. For this he received the thanks of the governor of Jamaica. Later he committed such cruelties he was sent to England in chains. He caught the royal fancy of Charles II., who knighted him and sent him back to Jamaica as lieutenant governor.

The moral of this is uncertain and stands about fifty-fifty.

2,000 SCOTS PAY ANNUAL TRIBUTE TO BOBBIE BURNS

Scots of Chicago numbering over 2,000 gathered at the foot of the bronze statue of Robert Burns in Garfield park yesterday to pay homage to the poet on the 139th anniversary of his death. Before the program at the statue started there was a parade in the park to the statue in which the Curtiss Kilties led and piped the way.

Suitor Admits Guilt; Wants Speedy Death

Overcome by remorse and frightened by a lie detecting machine that had been strapped on his arm, Mills Redmond, 27 years old, 6447 South Irving avenue, confessed yesterday that he killed a 17 year old girl on Dec. 1, 1934.

The body of the victim, Marion Cozzo of 6420 South Oakley avenue, was stuffed by Redmond into a sewer catch basin at 68th street and Fairfield avenue, where it was discovered on Thursday and identified by the clothing.

"Don't give me any trial," cried the admitted killer. "I'm as guilty as anybody could be. I want to go to the electric chair right now."

Machine Betrays His Emotions.

Redmond's confession was made to Assistant State's Attorney Alexander A. Napoli after F. E. Inbau, assistant director of the Northwestern university crime laboratory had reported that the prisoner showed great emotional stress as he was being questioned.

"I met Miss Cozzo," Redmond said, "at a party on Nov. 12. She gave me her telephone number and told me to call her. I never did, but I met her accidentally on the street again on Nov. 27. She agreed to meet me Saturday night, which was Dec. 1, at 63d street and Western avenue.

"She was there and we walked west to Kedzie avenue and then through Marquette park. We sat on a bench and at 10 o'clock she said she had to go home.

Resists His Advances.

We walked along 68th street until we got near Fairfield. I tried to get too familiar with her and she pushed me away.

"I put my hands around her throat and she became rigid. I hadn't meant to kill her. When she didn't come to I became panicky. I listened for heartbeats and didn't hear any, so I knew she was dead. Looking around I saw the catch basin cover in the street. I carried the body to it."

Redmond said that he placed the body in the street while he lifted off the 85 pound cover. Thrusting the body in, feet first, he replaced the iron lid and went home.

Overcomes His Nervousness.

"For a few days I was nervous," Redmond continued. "But I stood up when the girl's relatives questioned me. After a little while I didn't worry at all. But when I saw in the papers that the body had been found I knew they'd be after me again, and that it was all up with me."

A wiry, well setup man who worked as a sealer at the American Can company plant, Redmond has a wife and child living at Niles, Mich. He asserted when he was first questioned that he had been in Niles the night the Cozzo girl disappeared. But two young women, who, he said, had accompanied him, disputed the statement and the police began to believe that he was not telling the truth.

It was not until the lie detector had been placed on him and he had been given a long questioning that Redmond broke. His confession was made in the presence of Mr. Napoli, Mr. Inbau, and Policemen Joseph Leonard, George Lenzi and James Lyons.

Killer's Brother Freed.

After he had signed the confession the police released his brother, Clyde Redmond, 20 years old, who convinced them he knew nothing of the crime.

After Mills' confession he was taken to the scene of the crime, where he reënacted the slaying.

Another man who confessed Saturday that he killed a young woman is being held at the State street police station. He is Joseph Gornik, 21 years old, 4800 South Seeley avenue. His victim was Miss Mae Lekavice, 19 years old, 4607 South Paulina street. Although Gornik asserted the two had made a suicide pact, in consequence of which he stabbed her, the police believe that he slew the girl when she resisted his advances.

CATHOLICS DEFY NAZI DRIVE TO HUSH CRITICISM

Priests Read Letters Against Orders.

BERLIN, July 21.—(AP)—Priests in Freiburg, Baden, today defied a stern warning against criticism from the pulpit of the Nazi drive to end "political Catholicism" as elsewhere in the tense reich the Catholic clergy obeyed the government edict.

The Baden priests read a letter in their pulpits from the Episcopate calling the Nazi drive against Catholic youth organizations a violation of the concordat with the Vatican.

Police, reported to have been stationed secretly in congregations throughout the nation ready to make arrests if the decree were not observed, took no immediate action against the priests, as far as could be learned here.

Deep Struggle Predicted.

The authorities refrained from action, it was explained, because the decree issued last night by Franz Guertner, minister of justice, threatening prosecution for any priest violating the injunction of Gen. Wilhelm Hermann Goering, head of the secret police, had not been published in Freiburg. Baden has no Saturday evening newspapers.

Walther Koehler, premier of Baden, was expected by Nazis to enforce force the edict strictly, but the reading of the letter from Freiburg pulpits was regarded as foreshadowing a deepening struggle which has already taken root in several Baden localities, such as Karlsruhe, where Catholic youth societies are forbidden.

Reports from Catholic centers from all other parts of the reich were that priests performed their offices without molestation.

Today's Nazi press takes the view that Goering was merely issuing a "last warning" to Catholics to toe the line between religion and politics and that action against them would come later.

The sermons, however, generally steered away from all subjects which might be construed to fall within the meaning of the Nazi drive against "enemies of the state," meaning Catholics, Jews, and conservatives—or those who do not see eye-to-eye with the Nazis.

The text of the sermon at St. Hedwig's church, Berlin's Catholic cathedral, was taken as a pattern for the subject matter in the other parishes. It was confined to non-political topics.

Catholic Centers Restrained.

A check of Catholic Silesia, seat of Cardinal Bertram, a vigorous enemy of Nazism, revealed that everything there was quiet.

The latest element in the Nazi-Catholic fight is the Nazi charge that the Catholics, not the Nazis, were first to violate the concordat entered into with the Vatican. In performance of their religious duties, the Nazi charge states, the Catholics made attacks on the Hitler youth movement through their parish papers.

In addition to those attacks, the charge continued, the Catholics practiced open sabotage of the National Socialist movement, which Nazis interpret as a violation of the concordat.

Extend Anti-Jewish Measures.

The Nazis, unlike other revolutionists, the spokesmen said, gave religion a chance to exist through the concordat. The Nazis attempted to persuade religions rather than extinguish them, they said, but certain sections of Catholicism have misused the Nazi-Vatican agreement.

Today's provincial press contains reports of numerous additional measures taken against the Jews. While windows of the closed Jewish ice cream parlors were smashed in Berlin's Hohenzollern platz, Jewish stores in several other streets were plastered with provocative signs.

The town council of Osann-on-Mosel voted the following resolution, which is typical of the widespread boycott:

"No Jew or Jewess permitted to move into Osann. No Jew can rent or buy a house or land in Osann. No craftsman, merchant, or any other citizen can get work or orders in town who has had anything to do with a Jew. Purchases from Jews mean treason against the people and the nation."

Probes Fate of Steel Helmets.

A notice on the bulletin board at the University of Berlin gave final warning to students against tutoring by Jews. It was intimated that students will be watched, and those who continue to be instructed by Jews would fail in their examinations.

While Catholics were in the vortex of the week-end attack "as the state takes hold," as Nazi organs put it, and the Jews were next in line, Minister of Labor Franz Seldte, chief of the Steel Helmets, wrote to the governors of Baden and Anhalt demanding the reason for the suppression of the veterans' organization in their provinces.

His letters were published in the organization's weekly "Stahlhelm." They asked why the local divisions of the Steel Helmets were abolished without notifying him. The paper's week-end edition was quickly sold, and the interest is great in what the Steel Helmeters can do to defend themselves.

Next week's issue of Stahlhelm, a spokesman said, will contain some sharp language to which Nazi Germany has not been accustomed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, July 21.—Five veterans of the British Legion who are in Germany on a friendship tour clashed today with their hosts in Munich when they declined to lay a wreath at the memorial for Nazis who fell in Adolf Hitler's beer hall putsch of Nov. 9, 1923. The memorial is located in the Feldherrenhalle with Hitler guards always on duty. Each person who passes must raise his arm in the Hitler salute.

The official program announced the laying of a wreath by the Englishmen. Three thousand persons gathered to witness the ceremony. An hour passed but the Britons did not appear. Then Adolf Wagner, Bavarian minister, accompanied by Hans Oberlinober, chief of the Nazi war victims' service, appeared and deposited a wreath. Meanwhile the British delegates deposited a wreath of Flanders poppies at the memorial to Bavarian war dead.

Maj. Featherstone-Godley, head of the English delegation, subsequently declared:

"We did not realize until this morning what the putsch memorial was. We are not playing with politics. We are only aiming to cement the friendship of war veterans of the two nations. That memorial only represents twelve men, but the other at which we laid a wreath represents half a million fallen soldiers."

The Englishmen further annoyed the Nazis by requesting to see the Dachau concentration camp. Ultimately two delegates were conducted there this afternoon.

MOTHER RESCUED WITH TWO GIRLS FROM GAS DEATH

Mrs. Erma Jane, 23 years old, 2319 Winnemac avenue, and her daughters, Shirley, 7 years old, and Betty, 4 years old, were found unconscious from the effects of gas last night in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Jane's father, Max Stark of 2143 Farragut avenue.

The discovery was made by Walter Stark, brother of the woman. He summoned the police and squad No. 4 of the fire department. The squad, led by Lieut. William Shay, revived the mother and daughters and they were taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital, where it was said they would all recover.

Harold Jane, husband of the woman, who was at his own home when Stark notified him of what had happened, said that Mrs. Jane recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

CONSTITUTION VS. NEW DEAL SEEN AS 1936 ISSUE

to put new and bigger teeth in the AAA, the Guffey bill to socialize the bituminous coal industry, and the utility holding company bill, all of which measures are sponsored by the President.

"What's the constitution between friends?" exclaimed a Tammany congressman when President Cleveland refused to sign a bill because he doubted its constitutionality. "What's the constitution between New Dealers" is a question the President himself has answered in the case of the Guffey coal bill. His rule is: When in doubt sign the bill and pass the buck to the courts.

Speculation as to Motives.

Attorney General Cummings is said to have advised the President that the Guffey bill is unconstitutional. Before the ways and means committee the attorney general would not undertake to say whether it is constitutional or not. Then the President wrote a letter to the committee in which he said: "I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation." This brought down on Mr. Roosevelt an avalanche of criticism to the effect that he had violated his oath to "preserve, protect, and defend" the constitution. It loosed such a storm of disapproval, even in the ranks of his own party, as imperils the enactment of the Guffey bill.

There has been no end of speculation on the motives of the President. It has been suggested that he shares the expectations of New Dealers who hold with Mr. Dooley that the Supreme court "follows the election returns" and who are confident that tests of public sentiment at the polls or otherwise will influence the court to stamp with its approval the more important New Deal measures. The court, according to the more ardent New Dealers, will realize that it is doomed as an institution if it continues to find the Roosevelt innovations in government unconstitutional.

The most commonly accepted theory, however, is that the President is deliberately building up an issue of the New Deal against the constitution on which he calculates he can be reëlected. According to this theory, he would expect the judicial invalidation of numerous New Deal laws in the next year to evoke a popular reaction in his favor.

Chicago Reserve Officer Is Found Dead in Camp

Battle Creek, Mich., July 21.—(AP)—Second Lieutenant George L. Hudson, Chicago, of the quartermaster's corps, organized reserves, was found dead in his bunk at Camp Custer today. He apparently had suffered a heart attack.

17 STREET CAR CRASH VICTIMS STAY IN HOSPITAL

While the authorities continued the investigation into the cause of the street car accident at 75th street and South Chicago avenue Friday afternoon, which resulted in the death of one man and the injury of ninty-two persons, seventeen of the injured victims were still receiving treatment at the Jackson Park hospital yesterday.

Physicians reported that the injured remaining at the hospital had suffered fractured bones which would keep them there several weeks. Michael Pinto, 14 years old, 4805 Wells street, whose left leg was severed in the crash, was reported to be gaining strength.

The coroner's inquiry has been continued until Sept. 5 to permit all the injured to testify at the hearing. Surface lines officials have announced that they will have the motorman at the next hearing to testify.

WOMAN DARES MAN TO FIGHT HER IN A DUEL

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, July 21.—Mrs. Katonai created record in Hungarian duelling annals today by challenging to a duel the husband of her former employer, Mrs. Kemeny, whose smart dressmaking establishment she left abruptly after high words with the proprietress last week.

Her seconds declined to deliver the challenge until they had consulted various dueling authorities who agreed that although there was no precedent for such a duel there was nothing in the dueling code to prevent a woman from challenging a man.

Mrs. Katonai is an expert fencer. Kameny accepted the challenge and nominated two army officers as his seconds.

CONFESSES DROWNING WIFE AND MOTHER OF 2 FOR LOVE OF GIRL

Worcester, Mass., July 21.—(AP)—Newell P. Sherman confessed tonight that he drowned his young wife in fog-swept Lake Singletary, authorities announced, for the love of a 16 year old girl who had rejected his attentions.

State Detective Edward J. McCarthy said Sherman, 26, member of an old New England family, admitted plotting for three days to do away with his 23 year old wife, mother of their two children.

McCarthy said Sherman, against whom a charge of first degree murder has been lodged, confessed he overturned their canoe in the lake last night, beat off his wife's feeble efforts to save herself, and swam around "until he saw bubbles come up."

Detectives questioned the girl, an employé of the Whitinsville, Mass., machine shop, where Sherman worked, at the Grafton state police barracks, and then announced she had been "exonerated."

"We are convinced that Sherman forced his attentions on this girl and that in no way could she be held responsible for what happened to Mrs. Sherman," McCarthy said.

NEW YORK CAFES MEET PROTESTS BY PRICE CUTS

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Bowing to restaurant patrons who refused to eat after menu prices were increased 10 per cent on April 1 to absorb rising wholesale food costs, most of the restaurateurs of New York City have returned to old menu prices. In some instances they have reduced charges. That was announced today by Paul Henkel, president of the Society of Restaurateurs.

Henkel said restaurant owners of the state might replace 40,000 women with men, because of the fair minimum wage for female employes fixed by the minimum wage board in New York.

PASSENGER ON STREET CAR HURT IN A FREAK CRASH

John Daly, 18 years old, 3430 North Albany avenue, a passenger on a westbound 69th street car, suffered a fractured skull early today when an automobile crashed into the front end of the car.

Altogether three automobiles were involved in the peculiar accident. One, driven east in 69th street by Stanley Kapusinski, 23 years old, 7136 South Fairfield avenue, was struck by another, northbound in Irving avenue and driven by John Pauss, 48 years old, 5720 Princeton avenue. It was the Kapusinski car that was hurled against the surface car, which had halted to discharge passengers.

The force of the collision was so great that the surface car was thrust back on the tracks several feet. Young Daly was thrown from his seat and his head struck the floor. The backward thrust of the street car brought it into collision with the third automobile, driven by Harvey Boger, 41 years old, 5219 South Campbell avenue.

The only persons injured were Daly and Miss Helen Erachia, 19 years old, of Brule, Wis., a passenger of Kapusinski. The girl's hurts were not regarded as serious. Both were taken to Holy Cross hospital.

MUNITIONS BLAST JARS ISTANBUL; FIRES PERIL AREA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 21.—(AP)—Military authorities clamped a censorship today on details of the second explosion in a month at a munitions plant near here yesterday.

Soldiers and three brigades of firemen battled for five hours to check the blaze which threatened nearby ammunition depots and the suburbs of Fenerbagtche, Cadikely, and Moda.

The terrific blast shook a considerable area and a report said many persons were killed.

COUNCIL TO VOTE INCREASE IN PAY FOR 17,000 TODAY

Will Act on Supplemental Budget and Airport.

The city council is to act today on a partial cancellation of pay cuts of city, library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium employés, a lake front airport ordinance, a police and fire station building program, an anti-noise campaign, and the appointment of a new corporation counsel.

In the city's supplemental budget, which has been recommended by the finance committee sitting with Mayor Kelly, there are appropriations of $4,563,000 for restoring pay, for expanding police and fire protection, and for providing services paid for from the corporation fund. This budget has been published, and today the council is scheduled to vote upon it.

Provisions in Extra Budget.

In the supplemental budget, as it will come up today, are appropriations of $1,677,760 for canceling, during the final six months of this year, one-half of the pay cuts imposed upon city employés; appropriations of $442,200 for 500 more policemen, of $174,080 for 200 more firemen, of $225,000 for Navy pier and Lake Calumet improvements, and of $200,000 for a Diesel-engined fireboat.

From its own special funds, and funds of semi-independent agencies, the council is to appropriate for added services and pay restorations as follows: Water fund, $214,099; vehicle tax fund, $37,250; Chicago public library, $361,408; city tuberculosis sanitarium, $821,643.

There is a reappropriation also of $1,070,000 to restore to judges, clerks and bailiffs of the Municipal court all the reductions made in their salaries during the depression. This action was forced by suits brought by the judges and court employés.

$2,000,000 Construction Program.

Another appropriation, approximating $2,000,000, is from the residue of bond funds which recent legislation permits to be used for construction of police and fire stations and of bridges, and for extension of the street lighting system. The mayor is expected to have ready for submission today a detailed program for the expenditure of this money.

The mayor has had prepared also a measure authorizing the construction of the $8,600,000 island airport in Lake Michigan off 16th street. The airport is to be built under provisions of the airport authority bill recently passed by the general assembly. It is proposed to finance the airport's construction with federal loans and grants to be repaid from airport tolls and terminal and hanger concession fees.

Plan Noise Law Study.

Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], chairman of the council committee on police and municipal institutions, has prepared a resolution under which his group can proceed with a study of anti-noise ordinances now in the city code for the purpose of modernizing them, if necessary, and to propose methods of enforcement.

Many provisions of existing ordinances are listed in the alderman's resolution, which calls attention to complaints that the present anti-noise ordinances are being entirely violated and points out that as noises are a detriment to health, measures should be taken to enforce them.

On the corporation counsel appointment, the aldermen may have the opportunity today to approve the appointment of Barnet Hodes, a former colleague, whose name is expected to be submitted by Mayor Kelly.

Hodes is to take over the cabinet position to be vacated today by Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton. Mr. Sexton is to become attorney to the council committee on local transportation to aid in the drafting of a new transit ordinance.

G. W. BROWNING, HURT BY AUTO, IN GRAVE CONDITION

Granville W. Browning, 79 years old, 2205 Cleveland avenue, veteran attorney and Democratic leader, was reported last night to be in a serious condition at the Henrotin hospital. Browning was struck by an automobile Saturday at Dearborn and Adams streets. He incurred fractures of the left leg and left arm, and it was feared that he might have received other hurts which were not immediately recognizable. Last night his physician, Dr. Arthur H. Conley, called in for consultation Dr. Dorrin F. Rudnick, specialist on internal injuries.

On another flight, passengers leaving Chicago at 3:20 a. m. reached Yellowstone, 1,623 miles away, in the afternoon.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER DIE IN BLAST.

Springfield, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thomas Matthew, 28, of Rochester, and her 7 year old daughter Marjorie were fatally burned today when the mother tossed gasoline on the fire at home.

His Third Wife

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Duncan McMartin, young Canadian mining millionaire, and his third wife, the former Lillian Kenton, blonde model of cigaret advertisments, were on their honeymoon here today after a surprise elopement.

Married by a justice of the peace at Harrison, N. Y., on Friday, they plan to go to Europe. McMartin attracted notice with a long distance telephone call from Montreal to Palm Beach to learn from a restaurant there if he had left his straw hat.

His first wife was Dorothy Barton, a cabaret singer. They were married in the spring of 1931, divorced that fall. In May, 1933, he and Francesca Carey, daughter of William Carey, former head of Madison Square Garden, eloped to Tia Juana, Mexico. They were divorced in Reno a year ago.

SUNSHINE LURES 1,500,000 OUT TO OPEN SPACES

500,000 Crowd Beaches; 400,000 in Forests.

More than a million Chicagoans, according to reliable estimates, disregarded 90 degrees of muggy heat yesterday and flocked joyously to the city's and Cook county's free recreational facilities.

Another half million, it was computed, spent the day touring the green countrysides in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

As usual on days when the sun beats down with more than summer resort force, the 29 miles of beaches stretching from Evanston to the Illinois-Indiana line were thronged. And the throngs found comfort there in cooler air as well as in the refrigerated water of Lake Michigan. Light, shifting winds blew at intervals from easterly directions and temporarily drove the mercury along the shore line below the 80 mark.

Estimate 200,000 in One Crowd.

The greatest crowd, reported at 200,000, gathered at the Wilson-Montrose beach. On the sands along the east boundary of Rogers Park were 97,000. Oak street had 50,000; Jackson park, 50,000; 49th street, 20,000; Calumet park, 20,000, and 67th street, 30,000.

Unreported street-end beaches, it was guessed, would carry the total number of bathers far above the 500,000 mark. North shore suburbs probably had another 100,000 natators, Evanston alone reporting 20,000.

Next in popularity to the beaches were Cook county's 33,000 acres of forest preserve, to which traveled 400,000 visitors, by far the greatest attendance of the year. Only July 4 had even rivaled yesterday's forest crowds.

Two Chicagoans Drown.

Only one drowning was reported at a city beach. Stephen O'Connor, 23 years old, 7236 South Claremont avenue, sank in the lake off 103d street in an attempt to swim to an intake crib a quarter of a mile off shore.

Another Chicagoan, Anthony Leva, 21 years old, 1635 Merrimac avenue, was drowned in Button's bay at the east side of Lake Geneva, in Wisconsin. The body was recovered a few minutes after he sank, but efforts to revive Leva were unsuccessful.

There was a great contrast between the official air temperatures and the readings taken in the lake water during the afternoon. From 1 p. m. to 8 p. m. the official readings ranged from 85 to 90; the water temperatures were fairly steady between 64 and 68 degrees.

CARTWRIGHT, Labrador, July 21.—(AP)—Thor Solberg, Norwegian-American flyer, and his radio operator compatriot, Paul Ozcanyan, landed here at 5:47 p. m. [Chicago daylight saving time] today on their flight to Norway from New York. The flyers came here from Havre St. Pierre, on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and planned to remain overnight to prepare their plane for the next stage.

SAFETY COUNCIL WARNS OF PERIL IN HOOKING RIDES

Death rides the bumpers for hitch riders. That was the warning issued yesterday by the Chicago Safety council, opening a new campaign to cut down the summer toll of broken and killed young persons thoughtlessly trying to hitch a ride on the backs of trucks, automobiles, and street cars. Each summer, the council warned, the deaths and injuries mount, and with vacation days at hand both motorists and boys should be warned of the dangers of the hitch riding practice.

Boys were warned particularly against the three most popular forms of this dangerous practice—holding on to the back of a car to be pulled along while riding a bicycle, squatting on the bumpers, and climbing on the back of street cars. Sudden stops and starts, fast shifting in trafic, and the possibility of being struck when jumping off the moving vehicle, present more dangers than any other vacation time practice, the council warned.

Motorists were requested to discourage the practice at every opportunity.

Flood Maroons Church Congregation for 4 Hours

Nolensville, Tenn., July 21.—(AP)—Heavy rains today marooned the congregation of the Concord Baptist church for more than four hours. Water overflowed from nearby Mill creek into and around the church and prevented members from leaving until midafternoon. Officers, hearing of the plight of the worshipers, arrived with a heavy truck and carried them home.

CHILD KILLED, 10 HURT WHEN CARS CRASH, HEAD ON

A 7 year old girl was killed and ten other persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles crashed head on five miles north of Joliet on U. S. route 66. Mary Kannaker, of Oglesby, Ill., riding in a car driven by Frank Lufkovich, also of Oglesby, was the child killed. Lufkovich's auto collided with one driven by Maurice Liberati, 27 years old, 929 Hope street, Chicago. Liberati's wife, Helen, 26 years old, and P. T. Schlingo, 44, of 934 Hope street, incurred fractures of the skull.

Thomas Soden, 55 years old, 2618 West Thirty-sixth place, who was found lying unconscious in Western avenue at One Hundred and Fifty-third street July 19, apparently the victim of a hit and run automobile driver, died yesterday in the Oak Forest infirmary.

With Soden's death the Cook county and Chicago automobile deaths for 1935 stood at 512 for the county. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday there had been 404 persons killed and 8,794 injured by automobiles within the Chicago city limits.

Meanwhile, many residents of Palatine prepared to attend the inquest there this morning into the deaths of four persons killed Saturday night when their car was struck by a fast train at the Chicago avenue crossing in the suburb. Citizens asserted they also would appeal to the Illinois Commerce Commission for protection at the crossing where 15 persons have been killed in the last few years.

Those killed Saturday night were Albert Jacobs, 34 years old, 3635 Castello avenue, Chicago; his wife, Hennie, 32 years old, and their children, Esther, 9 years old, and Mary Anne, 4 years old. A sister of Jacobs, Mrs. Martha Jacobs, wife of a second cousin of the dead man, saved her life by leaping from the car.

Three men under arrest at Elkhorn, Wis., on a charge of fleeing after an automobile in which they were riding struck and injured three Mexicans on a highway west of Elkhorn, identified themselves last night as Knute Johnson, 7207 North Western avenue; Ivar Carlson, 3126 Sheffield avenue, and John Hokanson, 2057 Chase avenue, Chicago, and Ivar Johnson, 1208 South boulevard, Evanston. Sherif George O'Brien said that Knute Johnson admitted he was driving when the car struck the Mexicans.

20 Companies Are Slated to Receive Grants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Sixty steamship owners and executives will be the primary beneficiaries if congress passes the pending bill granting millions of dollars in federal subsidies for building and operating American vessels, inquiry disclosed today.

Twenty steamship companies controled by these 60 individuals would receive outright grants from the federal treasury under the proposed bill. Large chunks of the federal money, as in the past, might find their way into the pockets of the 60 owners and executives as salaries or dividends.

Will Vary from Day to Day.

How much the proposed bill would benefit this handful of people and cost the treasury not even the proponents of the subsidy bill can estimate. The bill merely provides that American steamship companies shall be subsidized by an amount sufficient to equalize cheap foreign competition. This subsidy, opponents of the bill point out, will vary from day to day and from country to country.

Prominent among the individuals who would benefit under the subsidy plan are Vincent Astor and Kermit Roosevelt, stockholders in the International Mercantile Marine; R. Stanley Dollar and J. Harold Dollar, owners of the Dollar Steamship lines; J. P. Grace and other members of the Grace family, owners of W. R. Grace & Co.; five members of the Lykes family, owners of Lykes Brothers, Inc., and P. A. S. Franklin, head of the International Mercantile Marine.

The 20 steamship companies and their owners have already received many millions of dollars from the government in the form of inflated payments for ocean mail, loans for construction or reconditioning of vessels, or reduced prices on ships bought from the United States shipping board.

Borrow 107 Million from U. S.

More than 162 million dollars in direct federal aid, exclusive of loans, had been awarded these companies between 1928 and June 30, 1934, the postoffice department estimates. In addition the shipping board has loaned the companies 107½ million dollars for construction and reconditioning.

The shipping companies and their owners meanwhile have invested only 83½ million dollars in new ships, so that the government has put in almost three dollars for every one invested by the shipping companies.

For ocean mail alone the shipping companies had received 119 million dollars up to June 30, 1934. If the mail had been carried at the usual poundage rates, the postoffice estimates, the companies would have received only 15½ million dollars. The other 103½ million dollars can "be called nothing except a direct subsidy," the postoffice admits.

During this period sixty predominating steamship owners have been drawing large salaries or dividends. Since the depression most of the lines have not been paying dividends on stocks, but the salaries have continued.

Dollar Draws 2½ Millions.

R. Stanley Dollar drew 2½ million dollars from the various Dollar steamship companies from 1923 through the middle of 1934, receiving between $419,000 and $116,000 a year. J. Harold Dollar was drawing over a million dollars from the company in the same period.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, drew slightly less than a half a million dollars in salary and dividends from that company in the five years, 1928 to 1932, inclusive. Kermit Roosevelt received $162,000 during the same period. Neither in its reports to the postoffice department or to the securities commission did the company reveal how much it paid Vincent Astor, whose yacht is used by President Roosevelt, but the 17,600 shares of stock owned by Astor have not paid dividends since 1932.

J. P. Grace, head of W. R. Grace & Co., derived total salaries, commissions and dividends from his company's steamship, mercantile, and banking interests of 3½ million dollars between 1924 and 1932. During the same period D. S. Inglehart received compensation totaling $2,726,000.

Owners Benefit by Subsidies.

Large salaries for these and other steamship executives have continued during recent lean years, when dividends had to be passed and when some companies were operating with deficits despite their mail contracts.

The new system in the proposed subsidy bill would benefit the steamship companies and their owners primarily by giving them subsidies rather than loans for the construction of new vessels, enabling them to reduce their interest charges and use this money for dividends or other purposes.

In addition the provision in the bill subsidizing their operations by an amount sufficient to overcome cheap foreign competition would be elastic enough to yield them sums as large as they have been obtaining under the guise of ocean mail pay.

Ocean Mail Contract Loans.

Nineteen of the steamship companies which already have benefited from ocean mail contracts and loans and which might continue to benefit under the subsidy bill are listed below with their principal owners or executives as disclosed by the postoffice department's investigation:

International Mercantile Marine—Charles D. Barney, J. Gill Jacobson, Vincent Astor, P. A. S. Franklin, J. A. Franklin, Kermit Roosevelt, and Basil Harris.

Munson Steamship Line—Munson family, headed by Frank C. and C. W. Munson, Frank M. Kellogg and Chester B. Kellogg.

LEAVES ON VACATION WITH 25 IN-LAWS IN BUS AND TWO AUTOS

Kansas City, Kas., July 21.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas Richmond, prominent physician, headed west on a vacation trip today and took twenty-five of his "in-laws" with him.

Shortly after sunrise the Richmond party left the stocky physician's home in a chartered seventeen passenger bus and two motor cars, pointing for the cool heights of the Colorado Rockies. They were trailed by a motor truck carrying their baggage.

It was the fulfilment of a promise made by Dr. Richmond last Easter to his wife's relatives.

"I like my in-laws," he explained.

One of the calmest was Mrs. L. C. Cutler, 81, Mrs. Richmond's mother, who devoted her efforts toward quieting Bobby Lee Reed, 11 months old, the youngest adventurer.

U. S. FORECLOSING ON HOMES WHEN LOANS GO UNPAID

Actions Filed at Rate of Over 40 a Week.

Soon you may expect to see an equivalent to such notices on vacant homes in many parts of the country. The government is being forced into the real estate business on an increasingly large scale by defaulting borrowers from the Home Owners Loan corporation.

Up to July 15, it became known today, the corporation had instituted 712 foreclosure proceedings against home owners who, by design or otherwise, have failed to meet their payments on loans granted them to save their properties in a period of stress.

Such actions are being filed at the rate of more than 40 a week.

The total so far, however, is insignificant relative to the number of HOLC loans outstanding—882,974 for an aggregate amount of $2,665,532,258.

104 Homes Taken Over.

Already 104 homes actually have been foreclosed and now are in the hands of the HOLC for disposition. To do this job, the corporation has created a division of property management which functions much like any private real estate concern.

It reconditions the properties where necessary and puts them up for sale or rent at prices to insure the government against loss on its investment.

Officials emphasized there would be no "distress" selling of such homes at auction or at "bargain" prices. They expect instead to realize returns commensurate with current real estate values.

Report Refusals to Pay.

Of the total foreclosure actions so far started, 232 were said to have been caused by the borrower's "obstinate refusal to pay."

Massachusetts had the largest number of foreclosure actions up to July 15 with 78, Michigan, next with 75, was highest in the number of refusals to pay with 37. Ohio was third with 56 foreclosure actions and Connecticut next with 55.

Forty-four states and the District of Columbia are represented in the foreclosure proceedings. Those in which none have been filed so far are West Virginia, North Dakota, Montana, and Wyoming.

French Police Close Banks as U. S. Banker Disappears

PARIS, July 21.—(AP)—Police reported today that B. Coles Neidecker, American banker, was still mysteriously missing. Authorities continued an investigation of the Travelers bank, of which he is head. Branches of the bank at Nice and Cannes have been sealed by police. Neidecker, his servants said, left Paris July 11 for Marseilles. He has not been reported seen since.

FIND BODY ON TRACKS.

The body of Ferdinand Garcia, 36 years old, a laborer, was found on the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Chatham street in Blue Island yesterday. Police believed he had been struck by a train.

THRONGS CHEER ETHIOPIAN KING'S DEFIANT STAND

Chiefs Arouse People to Patriotic Fervor.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 21.—(AP)—Ethiopians gathered in cheering throngs today to give indorsement to Emperor Haile Selassie's determination to "defend to the last man" their territory from Italian invasion.

The people, stirred to patriotic fervor Thursday by the emperor's speech to parliament, and further roused yesterday by harangues by tribal lords, assembled at massmeetings throughout the city.

Leaders of all classes have adopted the emperor's challenging attitude in the Italo-Ethiopian controversy. They have rallied the people to the national resolution to preserve the country's record of never having been conquered.

Slave Trade Abolished.

The ministry of foreign affairs issued an official communique stating that the slave trade in Djinna, one of the issues stressed by Italy, has been abolished.

During the administration of the late Gov. Abba Djiffar, the communique explained, when he grew too old to direct Djinna's affairs, the slave trade flourished there. But upon his death his son, Abba Doula, submitted a written abdication agreement in return for a grant of 1,000 thalers [about $400] monthly.

Under government administration, the communique continued, the slave trade was completely abolished.

"The Ethiopian government finds incomprehensible and ridiculous the attitude of Italy in meddling with the empire's internal administration, reproaching it for the slave trade and defending, on the other hand, slave traders like Abba Djiffar."

Italy Spurns Peace Gesture.

ROME, July 21.—(AP)—Any further British intervention to effect a peaceful solution of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy would be doomed to failure, Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia of Milan said today.

"We don't know if actually the English government intends with that of France to make a final effort to avert the conflict," said a front page editorial. "However, this effort can only be made either in the direction of Addis Ababa or in the direction of Rome. That is to say, it must have for its objective either to induce the emperor to acknowledge a large part of the Italian demands or to induce Italy to renounce part of her demands.

"In one case or the other it will be destined to certain failure," the editorial concluded.

Condemn Emperor's Acts.

A dispatch to Il Messagero from Addis Ababa described European diplomatic officials stationed at the Ethiopian capital as having "keenly deplored" Emperor Haile Selassie's gesture of having translations of his uncompromising speech to parliament last Thursday distributed at the various legations.

In these circles, the dispatch added, the emperor's address is regarded as having "grossly violated the truth and manifested, besides a spirit injurious to Italy's rights, designs of a clearly bellicose intransigeant."

Another article in Il Messagero questioned the emperor's right to proclaim himself the master of Ethiopia. There exists in Ethiopia, the newspaper asserted, "no united organism such as we understand under the name of state."

Neither does Haile Selassie exercise a sovereignty over the tribal chieftains who rule the various sections of Ethiopian territory, Il Messagero stated.

STOP FIGHTING ECONOMY LAWS, PLEA OF LEBRUN

PARIS, July 21.—(AP)—President Albert Lebrun appealed today to the nation to end the fight against the economy decree laws of Premier Laval.

The plea was delivered at the president's dedication of a monument at Soissons commemorating the second victory of the marne, won with the aid of American troops in 1918.

The president asked the people to help the government combat the depression, which he partly blamed for Germany's failure to pay full reparations.

Jean Fabry, minister of war, in his address cited the army's "cohesion" as an example for the people.

Signs of hostility toward the economy decree seem to be subsiding. Aside from a demonstration at Lille the only week-end incident recorded was a left wing demonstration at Chatellerault arising from a dispute in the municipal council over the city's budget deficit.

PLEA IS MADE TO CONGRESS ON UTILITIES BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—A plea that the lobbying activities of a few discredited utility employés shall not be allowed to react detrimentally to the interests of the millions of small stockholders in utilities which are at stake in the holding company bill was voiced tonight by Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives.

"Millions of men and women who have invested their savings in utility securities," said Mr. Gadsden, "are asking the question: Are these savings to be destroyed because a few minor utility officials have resorted to scandalous and even dishonest methods in opposing the public utilities bill? Is the small utility investor to be penalized and the industry to be crippled because of isolated incidents of this kind?

"That is the real issue before the American congress. The house committee's investigation into government lobbying has disclosed certain activities on the part of government officials that will be condemned by the American people. No one would for that reason issue a general condemnation of the government.

"The headlines of Senator Black's investigation have nothing to do with the merits of the proposed public utility legislation. The disclosures before that committee must not be utilized to create an atmosphere of passion and prejudice in which the sponsors of government ownership can force the passage of any bill, however, destructive of the public interest.

"The senate bill, decreeing a 'death sentence' for the holding company and life imprisonment for the local operating companies within the walls of a federal burocracy, is now in the hands of the house and senate conference committee. The house of representatives has decisively defeated that bill. Popular sentiment is opposed to it. The committee of public utility executives will continue its fight against it by every proper means in its power."

BRITISH TROOPS FIGHT MOSLEMS; FIVE ARE KILLED

Mob Tries to Seize Mosque in India.

LAHORE, India, July 21.—(AP)—At least four rioting Moslems were killed today by army bullets and one cavalryman fell from his horse and was trampled to death as 2,000 Moslems fought soldiers for the second consecutive day. The Mohammedans were trying to seize the Gurwara mosque, which is being demolished by Sikhs, a Hindu sect.

The death toll now is at least ten, although no accurate check is possible since the natives quickly remove their dead and wounded. Fifty policemen, including five of the British force, were injured in the clash.

Barbed Wire Around Mosque.

Barbed wire protects the mosque, an unused edifice of the Moslems which stands on property now owned by the Sikhs. The Sikh community recently secured permission from authorities to demolish the building, but did not reveal the purpose to which the grounds will be put.

The Moslems objected to the plans and were aroused to active resistance when the Sikhs actually began tearing down the mosque.

Release Chamberlain's Son.

LONDON, July 22 [Monday].—(AP)—Wahabi warriors in Hejaz territory last night released Capt. Joseph Chamberlain, son of Sir Austen Chamberlain, and seven companions after holding them captive for a week, according to dispatches from Jerusalem.

The men were released as the result of an appeal cabled by young Emir Saud, crown prince of Saudi, Arabia, who is now in London, to his father, Ibn Saud, it was explained.

The dispatches said the men had been "handsomely treated" and entertained after they were reported to have unwittingly crossed the frontier while on a pleasure expedition from their post on the trans-Jordan frontier.

The incident is now considered closed, it was said in official circles here, as the arrest of the British officers was considered justified.

Chamberlain, stationed with a British force at Zerka, crossed the frontier July 14 with companions traveling in a military transport car. He was detained by followers of Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi, Arabia.

JAPANESE FIRM REJECTS ITALIAN ORDER FOR ARMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 22 [Monday].—The house of Mitsui, Japan's largest business and industrial concern, today decided to reject orders received for light arms and also 100,000 pairs of shoes for Italian troops. The newspaper Yomiuri declares that "certain quarters" told the Mitsui concern "Japan's business morals should preclude selling arms to persecute Ethiopia."

RICHARD HALLIBURTON RIDING AN ELEPHANT ACROSS ALPINE PEAKS

HOSPICE OF GREAT SAINT BERNARD, Switzerland, July 21.—(AP)—Richard Halliburton, American author and traveler, arrived at this famous Alpine monastery today on an elephant which he said he is riding across the Alps in emulation of Hannibal's famous journey.

Starting at Martigny two days ago, the elephant, Dolly, which Halliburton obtained from the Paris zoo, made the trip in easy stages.

The author said the animal began to balk because of the altitude after he had ascended beyond the 8,000 foot level. He said his journey would be ended when and if he reached Oasta.

Search Northern Indiana for Two Escaped Convicts

Michigan City, Ind., July 21.—(AP)—State police searched the northern part of the state tonight for Ray Brandsman, 35, of Joliet, Ill., and Paul Boyer, 24, of Kokomo, Ind., who escaped yesterday from the Benton prison farm in a dump truck.

IRISH RELIGIOUS RIOTING SPREADS; 1 KILLED, 3 SHOT

Houses Are Burned in Belfast Clashes.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 21.—(AP)—Snipers tonight shot and killed a man named Eddie Scarlett in Newtownards road, increasing to nine the deaths in rioting which has persisted here since the Orangemen's demonstrations July 12, the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne.

As sporadic shootings and fires continued to alarm citizens of Northern Ireland, there were anti-Protestant demonstrations in many parts of the Irish Free State during the week-end. These disorders were reported to be an outgrowth of disturbances here.

Smash Windows in Limerick.

In Limerick, Irish Free State, a mob of youths smashed windows in business houses owned by Protestants, and other minor outbreaks were reported.

At Clones, also in the Free State, the Masonic hall was destroyed and two other buildings damaged by incendiary fires. Police found six gasoline cans in the buildings.

The damaged buildings were a gospel hall, property of the Protestant congregation, and a recreation hall maintained by nonpolitical and nonreligious bodies.

In Belfast John O'Hara and John Diamond were slightly wounded by an unknown gunman. A number of men entered a house on Pittsburgh street and shot Joseph Hamill, wounding him in the thigh.

Fire Fighters Busy.

Fire brigades were busy checking maliciously started fires, three of which were in the York street district where most of the fighting has occurred.

A letter from the bishop of Down and Connor was read in all the Catholic churches of Ulster appealing to the congregations to "crush all bitterness out of your hearts, give offense to no man, avoid all occasions of arousing animosity, assist in maintenance of order and not impede the police or soldiers in the performance of their duty."

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

DEADLINE TODAY FOR ENTRIES IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

Arrange Competitions for Preliminary Winners.

Tickets on Sale!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival may be bought at Tribune Public Service offices. Reserve seats are 50 cents each.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

MARY R. STILLING.

The deadline for entry of Chicago and Cook county singers in the sixth Chicagoland Music Festival preliminary vocal contest, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be this evening at 6 p. m. All signed entries must be in the festival headquarters, room 1418, Tribune Tower, by that time. The entry coupon accompanies this story. They may be brought to Tribune Tower between 2 and 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. No applications will be accepted over the telephone.

Fifteen winners of the Chicago preliminary contest will compete Thursday night, Aug. 15, in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, and two victors, the winning man and winning woman, will contest Saturday, Aug. 17, the festival day, at the Drake against those who come to Chicago. The two finalists, man and woman, will sing that Saturday night before 100,000 people at the festival concert in Soldiers' field.

Public Invited to Tryouts.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Cook county sectional tryouts which will be held on the three sides of the city. The first, for north side tenors, baritones, and contraltos, will be held Wednesday night, July 31, in the Edgewater Beach hotel, at 7 p. m. There is no entry fee or admission to the contests. Outstanding teachers of voice have been asked by THE TRIBUNE to be judges for the competitions.

Hopes of Applicants.

Miss Forman is a graduate of Lindblom High school. Mr. Welch writes, "I can only say that in music I can see the goal of my ambitions, and that in no other field of endeavor could I find the happiness that I find in a simple song." The Windsor Park Women's club recently gave young Welch a scholarship.

Many professions are represented in the list of entrants. Charles Mayer of 2964 Ellis avenue is the head chef at the Park Lane hotel in Chicago. Mr. Mayer, a baritone, will ask the hotel management for Wednesday, Aug. 7, off for that is the evening for the south side baritone contest, to be held at the Chicago Woman's Club theater at 7 o'clock.

BELIEVE BREAK NEAR IN SWAMP MURDER SEARCH

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, in charge of the investigation of the murder of Ervin Lang, said yesterday that a break in the case is at hand. Word was expected momentarily, he said, of the arrest of Mrs. Evelyn Smith, hunted as the actual slayer, and her Chinese husband, Harry Jung, who helped her dispose of the body after the legs had been severed.

The descriptions of the white woman and her Chinese consort have been broadcast throughout the country, he said, but unfortunately no picture of either is available. Nevertheless, they should not be able to elude capture if they remain together, Mr. Dougherty said. He added that he doubted the woman would permit her Chinese husband to leave her.

She would be conspicuous in his company, the prosecutor said, either in a Chinese colony or elsewhere, and alone she would be terrified. As soon as she decided to kill Lang, who was lured to her apartment by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, who was to pay $500 for his murder, Mrs. Smith sent for her husband, Dougherty said significantly.

A continuous search is being made in Chicago's Chinatown, Dougherty said, and it may be easier for the couple to hide here than in some other city, but he is certain that it will not be long before the arrests are made.

Yesterday an automobile carrying a white woman and a Chinese was reported seen going north in Winnetka. Police were notified to watch for the machine, but found no trace of it.

Meanwhile Mrs. Dunkel is remaining in voluntary custody and no plans have been made for her indictment as the instigator of the murder.

Six Street Car Strikers Held in Attack on Operator

CHICAGO UNIONS SPEED ACTION TO BLOCK GANG GRAB

Appeal for U. S. to Stop Series of Slayings.

Chicago labor leaders will ask the support of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor in the proposed plan for a federal investigation of the murders of Louis Alterie, president of the Theater Janitors' union, and Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' union, it was announced yesterday.

These murders were regarded in labor circles here as steps in a general plan of the remnants of the old Capone bootleg syndicate to take over control of labor unions. Business agents who believe they are in peril of being slain unless protection is given them cite the recently passed Wagner-Connery labor disputes law as authority for the government to intervene.

Carry Plea to Washington.

Alterie, whose name originally was Leland Devarain, was ambushed and shot to death last Thursday. Yesterday his body was on its way to Los Angeles, Cal., for burial. Maloy was slain last winter. George Brown, president of the international union with which both the operators and the theater janitors are affiliated, has gone to Washington for a consultation with President Green.

The Wagner-Connery bill was labor's pet measure in the present session of congress and President Roosevelt signed it July 5. Under its provisions the national labor relations board has the power to issue subpenas and force witnesses to testify under oath.

To local labor leaders its most important provision is that the board may make inquiry to determine whether spokesmen for workers in collective bargaining have actually been chosen in a free election by the workers. The board could refuse to recognize any one who, by the power of pistols or machine guns, undertakes to place himself in either or both chairs made vacant by the murders of Maloy and Alterie.

Other Unionists Alarmed.

The reported hopes of the hoodlum syndicate, said to be headed by Frank Nitti, to vacate several other union executive positions by violence, led to the demand by many of the jeopardized unionists that President Green do something to aid them before the man with the machine gun appears. It was explained yesterday that they want Green to insist that the NLRB do something in Chicago.

The Wagner-Connery act gives great power to union officials in negotiating wages and working conditions for an entire industry. Therefore it makes labor leadership more attractive and at the same time more dangerous, and it was pointed out that if Nitti or his agents could get control of a few key unions they might be able to rule or ruin any industry.

Both Victims Racketeers.

The private lives of Maloy and Alterie were not defended by other labor leaders, who know that both were racketeers and therefore more vulnerable.

But the general belief was that they were killed only because of their union control and the question asked in the labor group was who is the next to be marked for death or abdication?

Capt. Gregory Moran of the Town Hall district, in charge of the investigation of the Alterie murder, said yesterday no clews had been obtained to the identity of the murderers. The Maloy case has been relegated to the unsolved murder files of the detective bureau.

PEORIA SLAYER OF GIRL TO GO ON TRIAL TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—In an atmosphere surcharged with threats that unless justice is done mob law will be invoked, Gerald Thompson, 26, confessed rapist and murderer, will go on trial tomorrow for the slaying of Mildred Hallmark, 19.

Extra precautions will be taken tomorrow morning when Thompson, handsome, calloused toolmaker, is taken before Judge Joseph E. Dailey in Peoria County Circuit court.

An attempt to halt temporarily the fast moving Peoria county judicial machinery will be made tomorrow when Ren Thurman, appointed by the court to defend Thompson, will seek a continuance. A previous effort to delay the trial was balked by Prosecutor Champion and Judge Dailey and it is expected that selection of the jury will be begun promptly. A special venire of 100, in addition to the regular panel of 32, has been called.

Prosecutor Champion today said he would ask for the death penalty and would qualify the jury for such a verdict.

PLANE FOR $700 ON MARKET SOON, VIDAL PREDICTS

Experiments Give Promise, Official Says.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—Eugene Vidal, federal director of air commerce, arrived here this afternoon from Washington and reviewed the progress made to date in the nine most promising projects concerned with the development of a light and inexpensive airplane sufficiently safe for any automobile driver to fly.

Despite the apparent inability of the aircraft industry to believe in the possibility of turning out a $700 airplane as indicated by the machines on exhibit at this 1935 all-American aircraft show, Vidal asserted there is every hope that such a machine will be on the market within a short time. He said several builders whose experimental designs were ordered built by the bureau have turned out machines which seemingly meet all these demands.

Models Considered Safe.

"At least three of our projects are very promising indeed," he said. "The ships can be flown absolutely safely by novice pilots. They do not spin, they land themselves hands off or with the stick all the way back from 200 feet. They are what we think are safe airplanes."

"Don't mistake me to say that these ships are unsafe," and he waved out the window where several transport air liners were drawn up before the Detroit City Terminal building, dozens of smaller planes were "hopping passengers" and Vidal's own cabin monoplane he had flown down from Washington with Frederick R. Neely, chief of the information section of the bureau.

"Properly flown they are safe, but the planes we are building can be flown with only a couple hours' instruction almost by any one at all."

Rudders at Wing Tips.

The plane nearest completion is the tailless Waterman high wing monoplane. The inclosed cabin seats two and has a 95 horse power motor turning a pusher propeller at the rear. The rudders are at the wing tips with ailerons and elevators in the trailing edge of the wing.

"We are ready to give this machine an approved type certificate [the ultimate stamp of department of commerce approval] and it is to be flown east this week by a novice pilot. It passed all its tests with flying colors, having a top speed slightly over 110 miles an hour, and can be landed with wheel brakes locked. We tried for two weeks to spin it, but couldn't."

Another machine is the Weick high wing monoplane with pusher motor. Its tail is at the rear, on the end of an outrigger boom. Fred Weick of the Langley field, Va., N. A. C. A. laboratories was the original designer, but it now is being completed by Fairchild. It has "flown beautifully," Vidal said.

Speed Over 110 Miles.

The "roadable autogiro" is entirely different sort of machine, Neely stated. When finally delivered to the bureau in October it is expected to be a sensation. Direct lift, meaning that no forward run will be necessary for it to get into the air, perpendicular descent, cruising speed over 110 miles an hour on a 90 horse power motor, and gearing to allow it to be driven at 20 miles an hour over highways, the pilot's "garage" and a clear field, are the unusual characteristics.

There are three attempts under way to convert inexpensive production type automobile engines for airplane use. One is a Hudson Terraplane engine with a belt and pulley reduction gear, another is a Ford V8 engine, and the third is a Plymouth motor.

Dean Hammond, youthful designer of the Hammond Y safety plane which in its original version has failed to meet the speed requirements of the department of commerce contract under which it was built, appeared at the show and he said he is building a new machine which will incorporate all the safety features of the first one, but with top speeds considerably above the 110 minimum demand.

AIRMEN OF ARMY START TACTICAL FLIGHT IN WEST

March Field, Riverside, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—Fighting planes roared over the far west today as the United States army's first wing air force began maneuvers to cover five states.

Bombing and attack squadrons totaling seventy-five planes from here, Rockwell field at San Diego, and Hamilton field near San Francisco were ordered to converge today and tomorrow at Salt Lake City.

The maneuvers will continue Tuesday over Utah, Nevada, Idaho, and Wyoming with "familiarization" flights to Cheyenne, Boise, and Reno.

ROADSTER ENDS 4,000 MILE TOUR THROUGH WEST

Reports Ageing Roads in Illinois Stretch.

BY HAL FOUST.

THE TRIBUNE roadster returned to Chicago late yesterday from a twelve day, 4,049 mile tour of the west, to report on this year's record travel season. As with other returning tourists, the towers of the loop assumed a new attractiveness, the attraction of home.

The last twenty-two hours of driving pushed the roadster 999 miles from Cheyenne, Wyo., pioneer cow town on the pass over the continental divide to the Tribune Tower in the metropolis at the foot of Lake Michigan.

In Cheyenne, where Wild Bill Hickok, Deadwood Dick, and Calamity Jane used to hold forth, corpulent business men were wearing the big hats and high heeled boots of the cow country. They were advertising the annual frontier days celebration in the Wyoming capital starting on Wednesday and ending next Sunday. Indians from nearby reservations, descendants of those who only a half century ago terrorized the whites, were beating tom toms for the Chamber of Commerce.

Through A Dry Stretch.

The route east on U. S. 30, the Lincoln highway, left Cheyenne with its population of 17,350 and its altitude of 6,100 feet and entered the brown plateau of western Nebraska. Cow men were moving cattle toward new water holes. There has been little rain there in the last month.

The road dropped to the valley of the Platte river, often mentioned in stories of the covered wagons and of the pony express. The valley, green with corn and yellow with wheat where irrigated, was followed most of the distance across the state. It's a good highway, excepting eighty miles of gravel, a distinct contrast to the dusty going encountered during most of the trip west across South Dakota.

After crossing the muddy Missouri river north of Omaha, the roadster followed the pavement through Iowa, where the tall corn grows. The dark green stalks in many fields stood well above the tops of the fence posts.

Farmers Push Wheat Harvest.

In Iowa and Illinois, which was entered across the Mississippi river at Clinton, farmers were seen harvesting wheat, glancing over the shoulders at distant dark clouds, wishing it could rain on the corn without wetting the wheat. When small grain is ripe and showers are threatened, there can be no respect of the Sabbath.

In Illinois, pioneer in concrete roads, the highway was not first class. A winding and cracked slab on an obsolete alignment, it followed a trail broken by wagons that held to the hill ridges to avoid mud in valleys.

After the roadster passed through Dixon, the Rock river town a hundred miles from the loop, trafic became heavy. For the rest of the distance to the loop, it was fairly slow travel jockying around the road hogs loafing at a leisurely pace on the busy pavement.

It was slow and difficult going, these last two or three hours, but it was pleasant because it marked the end of a long journey.

Highly readable and printed in six colors, the 1935 Chicagoland Road Map is now on sale at the Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 25 cents by mail, 30 cents.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

A SOFT CUSHION OF HARD CASH.

The bureau of business research of the University of Illinois has been making a study of the books of corporations which have gone broke. These autopsies have been performed to determine what changes generally take place in a business in its declining years.

The investigators hoped to find easily recognized symptoms of dissolution and they were not disappointed. The most important warning and in many instances the only warning of impending bankruptcy, they discovered, was a decline in cash assets. Changes in other kinds of assets, including plant and equipment, inventories, and money due from customers, don't tell much. There is a good deal of room for hopeful, not to say misleading, bookkeeping in these matters and in the ratios to liabilities which they provide.

Cash is different. You have it or you haven't, and the fact will show on the books.

When the cash position is weakened the business is imperiled. It has greater difficulty in keeping pace with new developments and in taking advantage of unusual opportunities. It must expect to pay more for what it buys and it is under continual pressure to sell its inventory at a sacrifice in order to get the cash with which to pay its bills.

A decline in cash resources is thus both a symptom and a cause of decay. Contrariwise, ample cash resources are both a symptom and a cause of health.

The fact is of importance in connection with the announced intention of the administration at Washington to crack down on the undivided profits of business. The brain trusters seem to think that many businesses are overloaded with cash. The government has taxed these accumulations once as corporate income, but wants to crack them again as additions to individual incomes.

The policy is an unwise one. It may be true that some individuals may have avoided some taxation by not declaring dividends in companies which they control, but for every excessive cash holding which the government would break up without working serious injury it would do immense and perhaps irreparable damage to scores of other corporations.

The treasury's experts may try to work out a rule of universal application which will fix an allowable maximum of undivided profits, but no formula will work well. The best judgment of how large a reserve a given company needs is the judgment of the men who run that business. They know its opportunities and its requirements. They are responsible to their employés and stockholders for its continuance and its success. They know that companies with a substantial cash position can weather storms which sink weaker organizations. They know, too, that a strong cash position is, by and large, the best guaranty to both employés and stockholders, and therefore to the government, of a steady income.

The finding of the University of Illinois researchers shows the error in the administration's plans. Many of the corporations whose records were studied died from excessive payment of dividends when reserves should have been built up. No corporation, so far as we know, ever went out of business because its cash position was too strong.

MR. ROOSEVELT SOAKS ILLINOIS.

In the fiscal year which has just ended the federal tax collections over the whole country were 23 per cent larger than the year before. The increase in Illinois was more than twice as great. Washington took 214 million dollars out of Illinois in the year ending June 30, 1934. Last year citizens and businesses in Illinois were forced to pay 321 million dollars, an increase in one year of 50 per cent.

President Roosevelt has soaked Illinois. Taxes have increased here more rapidly than in any other state in the Union. Despite that fact, Illinois has received far less than a fair share of the benefits of federal spending, and Mr. Roosevelt's man Hopkins bludgeoned the state legislature until it hoisted the sales tax another cent in the dollar. The Hopkins tax does not show in the federal accounting, but it belongs in any accounting of what the New Deal has done to Illinois.

Partisans of the administration try to explain away the gouging of Illinois by saying that the largest increase has come in the processing taxes paid by packers, millers, and others whose plants just happen to be in this state. The explanation will not stand examination. These taxes have been the means by which the government reduced acreage. As Illinois acres are, on the average, more fertile than those in other states, the loss suffered in Illinois was greater. In addition, the higher prices and the artificial scarcity of farm commodities have reduced consumption and have, therefore, reduced employment in the processing plants. That is one reason for the severity of unemployment in Illinois.

TRIBULATIONS IN EDUCATION.

Educators frequently review the finished evidences of their work covering a period of time and wonder whether they're going about the thing in at all the right way. The people who have gone through the mill do not seem to be finished with any sort of accuracy. It is for the most part a sloppy product. It does not indicate that anything like an exact science has been at work. Almost any other machine can be turned out more reliably than the human machine when general results are observed.

This goes along with the most amazing specialized expertness, for, after all, a human machine is the only one that can make any other machine. Somewhere there's a human machine back of the whole process, and specialized ingenuity, expertness, and skill would indicate that training could produce any kind of human being needed. That statement, of course, does not take account of the things which the human being possibly might be expected to do and hasn't done, many of them being things as yet unperceived, if even imagined.

The very expertness of the very skilled achievers does by contrast produce a great mass of new illiterates composed of people who can use things they don't know anything about. One genius or one highly trained man can give uses to millions who do not understand the process by which they do what they can do. What distresses the educators from time to time is not the difference between highly specialized knowledge and the mass ignorance, but the faults of the masses in simpler things, things which have been covered by general education and which are possible of exactness in learning.

One trouble that education can hardly avoid is that it encounters its subject at his age of greatest resistance. Often it is long after exposure to education that the person's real curiosity develops. When he had time his curiosity didn't urge him against other inclinations. When it begins really to stimulate him he hasn't the time to satisfy it. Many a fellow looks back upon his school days as the days of his hardest work. Nothing in making his living was really as hard as some of the experience he had with tough problems and lessons which seemed to defy his mind to grasp, while all the time the pleasant outside world offered delightful activities from which study held him back. There were bright youngsters to whom things came easy, but the average student found the going hard and the profit was but little apparent.

Modern pedagogy has softened some of these rigors, but still life for the pupil is not explained or justified in the terms of the classroom. Americans, being essentially amiable, do not like to bear down brutally on the student age and pound studies in with a strict discipline, demanding preciseness and exactitude and forming a mind which rejects inaccuracy. Some school systems have been notable for their sternness, but the American, for the most part, is inclined to greater lenience.

If the average specimen between the years of ten and twenty-five had as much curiosity as he is likely to develop between forty and the end of his days the trials of the educator would be lessened. Life is divided into two periods of regret, one that knowledge must be struggled with and for, and the other that it has not been obtained.

FRUITS OF EMERGENCY.

Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia university school of journalism, who proved a stout captain in the battle to defend freedom of the press, spoke the other day before the convention of business and professional women at Seattle. His criticism of the young-man-in-a-hurry tactics of the brain trusters was particularly telling.

"Those whose object is a new social order based on government control," said Dean Ackerman, "are taking advantage of the overwhelming sentiment of the American people for better social conditions and an improvement in the economic welfare of millions and are telling us that we must make haste or that all will be lost.

"This is not true. All will be lost if we make haste. Haste precipitated the world war. Haste made communism, Fascism, and Nazilism possible in Russia, Italy, and Germany. Haste prolongs a national crisis. It makes every emergency acute because it chokes opinion, reason, justice, and faith."

The courts, in their judgment of the hasty measures with which the New Dealers sallied forth to remake society to their own chaotic plan, seem to agree with Dean Ackerman.

Editorial of the Day

DEMOCRACY ASSERTS ITSELF.

[Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.]

When a paper like the Atlanta Constitution, which described itself as long ardently faithful to the administration, admits it is beginning "to crawl out from under the covers," a situation possibly more menacing to administration interests is indicated than the long open hostility of Gov. Talmadge.

Georgia is aroused by the attempted dictation of Secretary Wallace and some of his subordinates in the federal roads bureau of the state's highway program and over the Wallace ultimatum that the state highway board must be reorganized to suit the department. Mr. Wallace scolds the state because a chief highway engineer who was a federal favorite was dismissed and personnel reduced.

The federal roads bureau insists that the state place on its program a $250,000 bridge over the Oconee creek in the district of Representative Vinson, an administration favorite. There may be no politics in this sort of thing, but it would be hard to convince Georgia. The state officials say that the bridge would require the construction, in a section where all traffic needs are already met, of a $1,200,000 road to give access to the bridge.

The Constitution suggests that if Mr. Wallace is to have his way the state might as well recall its representatives from Washington and turn over the administration of the state to the secretary and those who agree with him. Pennsylvania knows something about attempted dictation by chesty administration subordinates. This time the pain in the neck is Georgia's.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"KANSAS GOVERNOR REMAINS SILENT Regarding Heading Republican Ticket in 1936."—Headline. That seems to show that the Republicans are beginning to have hopes of a break next year. Not long ago any Republican who was asked if he would accept the nomination for the presidency on the Republican ticket did not remain silent. He yelled NO so loud it could be heard sixteen miles and he followed that up by soaking his questioner on the snoot. After which he took a boat for Europe under an assumed name. Or else he hunted up an abandoned coal mine and went down into it after getting together enough provisions to last him until after the Republican convention. But now, if they are content merely to remain silent and not put on green whiskers and goggles and make an attempt to escape, it is safe to say that the Republican chances in 1936 are looking up.

AND THAT'S WHY we're hearing more about the Republicans in the last few weeks. They are sliding down from the trees where they've been hiding or coming up out of the abandoned coal mines. I've been passing a man on the drive for several weeks and looking at him curiously because I felt as though I knew him. Yesterday I saw him again and I knew him at once because he had taken off his false whiskers and blue goggles and linen duster. He is a Republican and was talked about as the party candidate next year and had assumed the disguise so the convention couldn't make him the goat. But now it's different—he feels that it might be worth while to be nominated—there is hope!

GRANDMA AND THE RADIO.

Grandma is growing elderly, the eighties she is nearing,
Her eyesight isn't what it was, and she is hard of hearing,
But clever, keen, and capable, and never does she sit
Upon the hearthstone by the fire and tediously knit
As her grandmother used to do, and dream of days gone by,
Or carp about our modern times and fold her hands and sigh.
But every morn she parks herself before the radio
And tunes in on the programs that forever ebb and flow;
The long day through you'll find her at her post, there, staunchly staying
To hearken heedfully to what the wild air waves are saying.

She keeps the score of ball games, and with the zeal of youth
She talks of Dizzy, Daffy Dean and a boy they call Babe Ruth.
She loves the Cubs and Giants and the Phillies, one and all,
But doesn't think that Senators should be out playing ball
With matters down in Washington in such a sorry mess,
Discusses Huey Hitler and his rival, Adolph Long,
And plebiscites and protocols; although her views are vague
About the status of Berlin and Baton Rouge and Hague.

It's marvelous the many things she gleans from radio:
For instance, though she never goes to see a movie show,
Grandma can name, right off the reel, the stars of Hollywood,
And tell you news about them only she and Winchell could—
The changing styles, the changeless jokes, the very latest tune—
Last night I heard her crooning "When January Comes It's June."
When it comes jangling through the air she frowns and cries, "O dear, it Might be a broadcast from Hongkong, if I could only hear it!"

The radio has many a phase, and each has its appeal;
Advertisements she revels in, and lectures that reveal
How to retain good health, good looks, a soft-as-velvet skin,
To which last consummation she sends soap wrappers in.
She's learned the lure of cigarets, and, shocking, this, but true:
The other day she quoted how if one depressed would chew
Well, grandma knows just what to do twice every day, 'tis clear,
She has it all down pat—and what to do twice every year.

ANOTHER CRISIS in France and the mobs are rioting around the Place de l'Opera. But modern invention has taken a good deal of punch out of a crisis in Paris these days. It's a lot harder to pull up asphalt pavements than the old fashioned kind made of blocks or stones. The inventors are always taking the joy out of life.

BALDNESS.

BALDNESS is a disease of civilization, particularly afflicting the male sex, at least in these days. Women occasionally become bald or complain of thinning hair, but in no degree comparable to the sterner sex. The American Indian and savages generally retain heavy "shocks" of hair through venerable old age.

We know that diseases of the scalp—infections with bacteria or plant fungi—may destroy the hair follicles [root bulbs]. We also know that a high temperature long continued plus a severe toxemia will cause the hair to loosen and fall out. As a rule, this is a temporary condition that is observed following typhoid fever or other types of long continued illness.

For years dermatologists have attempted to solve the problems of falling hair and the unfortunate victims have had their scalps plastered with ointments, soaked with tonics, and worked on by vacuum devices. Scores of other measures have been suggested and tried.

The story is related of the late Prof. Zeisler, a well known American dermatologist, who was lecturing to his medical class describing the methods of preventing and curing baldness. At the close of the hour one of the bravest of the students inquired: "But, professor, how does it happen that you are totally bald?" "Ah," he replied, "when I became bald there was no Prof. Zeisler!"

It may be remarked parenthetically, even at the risk of lèse majesté, that physicians are notoriously "thin of hair." Though members of the so-called learned professions are prone to baldness, the condition cannot be ascribed to overworked brain cells, much as one would like to adopt the suggestion.

In most instances falling hair may be regarded as a premature aging process occasioned by lowered nutrition and decreased circulation to the scalp. Any disease that decreases the capillary blood supply, such as arteriosclerosis, certain types of heart disease, kidney disease, etc., may manifest itself in poor scalp nutrition. An irritation or inflammation of the scalp may destroy hair follicles. Dandruff, which is really a low grade inflammation [dermatitis], is a common cause and scrupulous cleanliness is the remedy.

Tight hat bands that interfere with normal circulation are believed by some authorities to be a factor. "Senile" baldness, which may come on at a fairly early age—the late twenties or early thirties—is a hereditary phenomenon in 30 to 40 per cent of the cases.

Pituitary extracts have been used with some patients on the theory that loss of hair may be attributed to a glandular disturbance. One writer reports eight cases of improvement, but cautions against an attempt to apply the method to all types of baldness. He concludes that in some cases there exists a relation between loss of hair and the lack of pituitary gland secretion. He gives credit to the anterior portion of the gland as producing the activating material.

Some food or nutritional failure has been suggested as the cause of thinning hair. There may be a lack of a certain vitamin in the diet, particularly interfering with the metabolism of sulphur, of which the hair contains an appreciable quantity. Following this suggestion vitamins have been added to the diet as well as larger quantities of sulphur containing foods. Powdered sulphur may be taken with meals.

Most forms of treatment are accompanied by vigorous massage of the scalp which, temporarily at least, increases the circulation of the area. If a richer growth of hair results, the diet, the tonic, the ointment, or whatnot is credited with the improvement, whereas massage was largely responsible. It is the "rub thoroughly" part of the prescription that is valuable.

JAUNDICE.

L. I. writes: Last October the skin and the whites of the eyes turned a deep yellow and I could keep nothing on my stomach. Just picture the way I felt—only 20 years old, and I like my good times just as other young girls do. Gradually the yellow vanished from my eyes and the skin became lighter, but the skin is not as clear as before. Can a person be completely cured of jaundice?

REPLY.

Jaundice is no respecter of persons, of age, or of sex. Naturally you are worried, as every girl desires to preserve her complexion. With some attention to diet, your skin should clear provided no disease of the bile passages exists. Jaundice is caused by the absorption of bile into the blood, which in turn deposits it in the skin, in the sclera of the eyes, and in other parts of the body. As a rule the condition of the bile ducts is readily relieved. You may need to use less fat in your diet.

SALT AND HEAT.

J. M. G. writes: We have employés who do heavy work in the vicinity of steam vats and in boiler rooms and would like some information on the use of salt water to prevent heat stroke.

REPLY.

Have the employés drink water that contains one-half teaspoonful of salt to the quart. If a little gruel or oatmeal is stirred into the solution it will be more palatable. Do not use a higher concentration of salt than the above. When the body perspires (which is the only way it can cool itself) both water and salts are lost. These must be replaced by drinking salted fluids, since it will take a day or more on a normal diet to restore the salts lost following a few hours of active perspiration.

POISON IVY.

J. P. F. writes: My husband suffers with poison ivy. It affects his ears so badly that he can hardly stand the irritation. I received an ivy plant a few weeks ago and keep it on the porch. He attributes his trouble to this plant.

REPLY.

Probably the plant you have is not poisonous unless it has leaves with three leaflets. There may exist in the household some plant or other substance to which friend husband is unduly sensitive—thus causing the dermatitis affecting the ears.

RIGHT TO INSURANCE.

Chicago, July 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My husband has an insurance policy and as there is a judgment against him he wants to write over the policy to my son and myself. Now, in case of death, can the person who has the judgment collect from the insurance? 2. My husband tells me he believes I signed some papers at the same time he did [mortgage papers] and as I don't think so, can they collect fro... the policy even if I did sign? 3. Can the policy be written over to a minor, and [4] if so, is it necessary to have one or two witnesses to that effect? A. F.

1. In general, where a policy is so worded that the insured has the right to change the beneficiary, creditors can force the change in their favor. If, at the time the debt accrued, the policy was so worded, then a subsequent change might be set aside as a fraud on creditors.

2. If you did not sign, then their only way of collecting would be as above suggested.

3. Yes.

4. We suggest that you take these matters up with the home office of the insurance company.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DRAINAGE RIGHTS.

Chicago, July 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister in Wisconsin has a cistern which overflowed during the recent rains. By stopping the overflow the basement was flooded. Her neighbor cemented the overflow without her knowledge, so that the water would not wash out his seed as he says it does. Is the neighbor allowed to do this? If not, what procedure can be taken against him? C. J. M.

In general, a property owner in the position of your sister has no right to collect surface water and discharge it in a stream on a neighbor's land, but if the neighbor had by his past conduct impliedly consented, then there might be a basis of collecting damages against him for his failure to give notice. We doubt if your sister will accomplish satisfactory results by court proceedings. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, July 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In June of 1931 my mother died leaving a husband and ten living children, all of legal age. The oldest child was born out of wedlock in Germany two years before my mother married my father in America. Last September my father died and left no will. 1. Has this oldest child a right to an equal share of the estate as the other nine children? My mother and father both died in Iowa and I would like to know [2] if the laws in Iowa would be the same as the laws of Illinois? L. L.

1. The child would share in Iowa real estate belonging to its mother unless she left a will providing otherwise.

2. Yes, as far as this point is concerned.

CAUSE REMOVED.

Chicago, July 18.—[Friend of the People.]—My neighbors and I would appreciate it very much if something could be done to quiet the noisy dog next door. The dog howls day and night, and it is impossible to get any rest. It does not make any difference what the weather is, the dog is kept outdoors all day and night, and the howling continues without ceasing. A. J.

An officer interviewed the owner of the dog and she informed him that she was aware that the neighbors had been complaining about her dog and that to avoid any further trouble she had disposed of the dog. This statement was verified by the neighbors.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Studies at the Mellon institute, in Pittsburgh, and at Ohio State university reveal the fact that every one tosses and turns in bed throughout the night and that there is no such thing as "sleeping like a log." The average person loses about an hour of sleep every night in movement. Instruments have been devised which can be attached to the bed springs and will record the amount of movement during a night's sleep.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

"G" MEN AND HICK COPS.

Elkhorn, Wis., July 16.—News stories telling of the resignation of Melvin Purvis, No. 1 "G" man of the federal investigation forces, hint that he gave up his position because of differences with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department, over who should make the announcements of notable arrests in the middle west. It appears that Mr. Hoover cherishes the right to make those announcements, while Mr. Purvis has made a few on his own hook.

Jealousy between police officers and departments is not uncommon. We have seen the same thing in smaller police units in Wisconsin, and the insistence that credit be given where credit is due is a perfectly natural reaction. For that reason the repeated stories in Chicago newspapers giving full credit for the arrest of the Roger Touhy gang to Mr. Purvis burns us up not a little.

Just to keep the record straight, let us suggest that the Touhy gang was taken from public circulation for the space of 99 years because of the act of a lone, unarmed policeman at Elkhorn, Wis., and that Mr. Purvis had no idea where the gang was located until he received a telephone call from Elkhorn telling him that Roger Touhy, Willie Sharkie, Gus Schafer, and Eddie McFadden were cooling their heels in a hick jail in Wisconsin. The arrest occurred at 9 o'clock in the evening and Mr. Purvis saw the prisoners more than 12 hours later.

So if the federal department of investigation is going to argue over credit for arrests let Elkhorn in on it, because we have the facts concerning the best piece of police work in the history of gangdom roundups.

Incidentally, the officer who made the arrest of the four Touhyites collected not a penny of reward for the job. Evidently Touhy was unimportant to the government and Cook county.

CLAUDE EAMES.

THE DEBUNKER'S HORIZON.

Chicago, July 19.—It is my opinion that "The Debunker, Ph. D." has no rightful place on your editorial page. His inaccuracies are annoying; evidence of which I submit in today's [July 15, 1935] paper: "There is no such thing as the horizon." The word "horizon," in the sense in which he discusses it, is defined as "the line of the apparent meeting of the earth or sea and sky." In his enthusiasm to debunk he evidently chooses to ignore in the definition the word "apparent."

I am sure you can find some way to delete, or at least deport, from your editorial page, "The Debunker."

BYRED WILSON, M. D.

DANGEROUS VIADUCTS.

Chicago, July 19.—It may be a good idea to have street cars slow down when approaching railroad viaducts after that smash Friday. The way they speed down under viaducts it is pure luck none has jumped the track before. THEO.

THIS IS HARD TO TAKE.

Madison, Wis., July 16.—'Tis said that penance is good for the soul. If so, I seek to do penance by tendering to you my most abject apologies for disputing your claims of the woeful lack of merit in the so-called New Deal or Roosevelt policies.

I have reformed. Instead of being the vociferous champion of the man I claimed could do no wrong I now realize that he has merely chased shadows without producing the substance of benefit which you and other true liberals were seeking.

I not only want to express this apology to you but to admit that I know it to be overdue. Down through the months my eyes have been opening as it became clear that the President was seeking theoretical reform rather than real recovery. Being a liberal myself I was sympathetic, but being also practical I soon realized he was on a detour.

You were and are right. My apologies to you. If you ever see Gov. Alfred Smith give him my apologies also. We should have stuck to him. There is a man. He is as badly needed in national affairs today as is THE TRIBUNE policy. Both are sound and correct.

I bow to your greater wisdom. Keep up the good work. J. L. DAVIS

FOR MORE ABUNDANT SPORTS.

Chicago, July 18.—What's the matter with baseball? As a technical engineer, here is my analysis: The game is usually too monotonous. Who cares to see a game go 0 to 0 for 7 innings and one side then finally makes a run?

Let's change the game so as to open it up and allow more action. My suggestion is that we should eliminate the shortstop altogether and even have two fielders instead of three. Then you will see some action. It would give the players a chance to score and the game would become interesting.

The same thing holds true for hocky and soccer. Eliminate the goalkeeper and give the players a chance and you make the game interesting.

ADOLF FORS.

HOW MUCH IS A BILLION?

Glencoe, Ill., July 19.—Mr. Highland's letter speaks of the vastness of a billion dollars and how inconceivable it is to the majority of the people. I do not think the mere words "one thousand million" mean any more to the average person than the term "one billion." Perhaps it would be clearer if we said a billion dollars is a chain of dollar bills long enough to circle the entire United States more than twenty-three times. When we think that this is but a small part of what our President controls, it is time to sit up and take notice. CHARLES L. DOSTAL.

MEGALAMONOMANIAC.

Chicago, July 18.—In today's editorial you mention the senators looking up the word "megalomania." Do you recall when the late Joe Pulitzer called Teddy R. "megalamonomaniac?" The Roosevelts seem to get these big words.

Miss Rena Buck to Be Bride of W. M. Robinson

Fall Wedding Second of Year in Family.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a dinner-dance at their home, 235 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Buck told the interesting news that their daughter, Rena Elizabeth, is engaged to be married to Winthrop M. Robinson. The wedding is planned for the fall. It will be the second in the family this year, for Frances Buck became Mrs. John W. Taylor Jr. last February.

Miss Buck, who is a member of the Evanston Junior league, was graduated from Vassar college in 1934, having prepared for college at Roycemore school. Her fiancé, who has lived in Evanston for several years, is a son of the late Dr. Thomas F. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson of Birmingham and Mobile, Ala. He attended the University Military school of Mobile and is a graduate of the University of Florida, where he was a Kappa Alpha.

Miss Buck will spend the rest of the summer with her parents at their ranch in northern Wisconsin, to which they have been going for week-ends during the first half of the summer.

Benefit Sale Tomorrow at Mrs. Otis' Farm.

The Chicago colony at Harbor Point, in northern Michigan, is interested in a sale for the benefit of the Vocational Society of Shut-Ins that will be held tomorrow at Birchwood farm, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis' beautiful home at the Point. The gardens of the Otis farm are particularly fine and there will be many women from other resorts driving to the Point tomorrow to attend the sale and to see the lovely gardens. Assisting Mrs. Otis in selling will be her daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, and also Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, Mrs. Edward L. Hersey, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes and her daughters, the Misses Dorothy and Elizabeth, Mrs. Frank M. Gordon and her daughters, the Misses Isabel and Marion, and Nancy Otis, Mrs. Otis' granddaughter.

Mrs. Dexter Fairbank is going up to the Point especially for the sale and will be Mrs. Otis' guest for a few days.

Lake Geneva Garden Club Members to Attend Party.

Mrs. Armin Brand and Mrs. Frank A. Rehm will be hostesses tomorrow to members of the Lake Geneva Garden club at a meeting at the Lake Geneva Country club. Miss Irina Khrabroff will give an illustrated lecture on "Abandoned Gardens in Dalmatia."

Last Monday Mrs. Rehm and Mrs. Brand served tea at their home, All View, to officers of the Lake Geneva Garden club and thirty-six members of the Barrington Garden club who drove to Lake Geneva for the day. Mrs. Daniel Peterkin entertained the party at luncheon at her home at Oak Lodge, and then the Peterkin, Maytag, Macdonald and Schmidt-Bartholomay gardens were visited.

The officers of the Lake Geneva Garden club are: President, Mrs. W. P. Finney; first vice president, Miss Edith Kohlsaat; second vice president, Mrs. Frank Porter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. N. Gifford; recording secretary, Mrs. Alfred Craven; treasurer, Mrs. Addin Kaye; directors, Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin, Mrs. E. P. Ellwood, Mrs. E. B. Frost, Mrs. William F. Petersen, Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. H. L. Macdonald, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay.

The board of managers of the Lake Geneva Fresh Air association has issued invitations for a bridge tea for the benefit of Holiday Home at the Big Foot Country club on Wednesday, July 31. Mrs. John R. Reilly is in charge of the sale of tickets.

Benefit Outing at the Harley L. Clarke Estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley L. Clarke will open their beautiful estate, Clear Sky Lodge, at Lake Geneva, on Wednesday, July 31, for a luncheon to be given by the Evanston Friends of the Chicago Junior school. The proceeds from the day's outing will go for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

From 4:30 until 6 o'clock today the board of governors of International house will entertain at tea for Prof. and Mme. André Siegfried, who are spending a few days in Chicago at the house. Among those who have been invited to meet the distinguished French author and his wife are members of various French groups in the city, members of the departments of economics and political science at the University of Chicago, and members of the Friends' Group of International house. Some of those on the governing board are Clay Judson, president, and Mrs. Judson; Victor Elting, the

Films to Make Ex-Grid Player Into a Cowboy

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—[Special.]—Nick Foran's screen name has been changed under his new Warner contract and the red headed former Princeton football player hereafter will be Dick Foran. Warner is going to make him its cowboy star. "Can he ride?" was the question asked a Warner spokesman. "I don't think so," said the Warner man, "but he can sing and he can learn to ride."

Another movie name change is that of Kay Linaker, until recently of the theater on Broadway. For film purposes she will be Lynn Acker and totally forget the Kay. She's 21 years old and originally hailed from Arkansas.

Warner studio will borrow Fredric March from Twentieth Century-Fox for the title rôle in "Anthony Adverse" and in return Warner studio will lend Dick Powell to T. C. F. for "Thanks a Million."

The Twentieth Century-Fox merger seems to have started a wave of expansion and construction. Radio-R. K. O. announces it will do $350,000 worth of building, including three new sound stages, a two story scene dock, three story storage building and a power house.

Twentieth Century-Fox is to build between $750,000 and $1,000,000 worth of new structures, including a completely new administration building fronting on Pico boulevard. The old headquarters, which housed offices of the resigned boss, W. R. Sheehan, will be vacated and turned into actors' dressing rooms.

United Artists studio is also putting carpenters and builders to work. Warner's is doing $500,000 worth of work, but that job preceded the Fox merger.

Buster Keaton does not intend to fight the divorce suit of his wife, the former Mae Scrivens, and says that as soon as the matter is washed up in California courts he intends to go to Europe to film pictures.

Arline Judge [Mrs. Wesley Ruggles] caught scarlet fever while her one year old son, Charles Wesley Ruggles, escaped it. Arline must spend 21 days in quarantine, which is a big blow to Twentieth Century-Fox, where she was to start a featured rôle with Robert Young in "Fly By Night" tomorrow.

The Screen Writers' guild has sent a formal letter to all Hollywood film producers notifying them that it has 770 members and protesting against the producers negotiating arrangements supposedly to govern all business contacts between studios and scenarists, with the writers' branch of Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science, which, the guild complains, has only 38 writer members. The guild, under signatures of Ernest Pascal ["As the Earth Turns," "Grand Canary" and "The White Parade"], president, and Robert N. Lee ["Kennel Murder Case," "Dragon Murder Case," and "Fog Over Frisco"], secretary, says: "We point out that the producers' financial support of the writers' organization with which they are negotiating directly violates section 8-2 of the newly enacted national labor relations [Wagner] act. The writers' guild stands ready to appoint a committee for collective bargaining for writers under this new act and invites you to do the same."

Star Cast Keeps Audience Interested at So-So Photoplay on Divorce Theme

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Again divorce—and its effect on the child—form the nucleus for a photoplay.

The principal characters in "The Age of Indiscretion" are a publisher, his pretty, shallow wife, their little son, the publisher's lovely, wholesome secretary—and old Mrs. Shaw, little Bill Lenhart's grandmother—by divorce and the remarriage of his mother.

Mrs. Shaw Sr. is an eccentric old soul who comes actively into the picture after the divorce—in which her daughter-in-law had failed to ask for custody of Bill. She's a mean old lady who's had her own way all her life. An old lady who, to all appearances, has never loved nor been loved by anybody. But she WANTS THAT CHILD! The ends she resorts to in order to obtain him provide the picture with several dramatic sequences.

With Madge Evans, Paul Lukas, Helen Vinson, May Robson, and that adorable little Holt boy in a cast, no movie could fail to keep an observer reasonably interested. From story standpoint, however, it's just another movie.

See you tomorrow!

"AGE OF INDISCRETION."

Writer Proves Able Mummer in Ample Show

Sullivan Makes Whoopee for Lively Revue.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Prominent among the personalities of the current week's theatrical entertainment is Ed Sullivan, spokesman and whoopee-maker for a program of stage merriment at the Palace called "Dawn Patrol Revue." He is a newspaper man by profession—one of those fancy specialists in gossip, glamor, and glitter called a Broadway columnist—and he has undertaken, with a considerable degree of success, to prove that he can chatter across the footlights like a regular mummer.

"Dawn Patrol Revue" is an ample portion of cabaret amusement, with a band on the stage and merrymakers sitting around nonchalantly, waiting to do their stuff. It is a theatricalization of life as the aggressive, quick witted Mr. Sullivan sees it on his night club beat for the New York Daily News. The performers that he has assembled would serve for at least two floor shows in Chicago as they are running this summer. The bill contains:

Dixie Dunbar, the pretty little soubrette of "Life Begins at 8:40," singing her well known "You're a Builder-Upper" ditty; Joan Abbott, blonde of hair, dark of voice, and eager of manner, singing such warm songs as "Life Is a Song," "Send Back My Love," and "South American Joe"; Betty Jane Cooper and the Lathrop Brothers, clever tap dancers; the Stanley Twins, in a new kind of sister act dance in which one appears as the other's shadow; Tito Coral, a good baritone; a colored man named Bates, who can dance although he has one wooden leg, and Dave Vine, Yiddish dialect comedian, who sits in a box and razzes Mr. Sullivan vigorously.

Volunteers from the night club shows also come to the stage, at the end of the formal program, to demonstrate their loyalty to Broadway columnists. Mr. Sullivan's own contribution, aside from the announcing, is a rapid-fire commentary in comic vein on some old motion picture excerpts, to the theme of "Water Under the Bridge." His service as the butt of Mr. Vine's satirical jests is in the Phil Baker vein.

The new plays that are getting their first acting in the summer theaters of the land this week are:

"Return to Folly," by Harlan Ware, formerly of Chicago, at Locust Valley, Long Island.

"On Stage," by Benjamin Kaye, at Nantucket, Mass.

"Beginner's Luck," by Frederick Jackson, at Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., with Louise Prussing, well known in Chicago, in the leading rôle.

Three Music Dealer Groups Meet Today; Million in Exhibits

Shiny new musical instruments valued at $1,000,000 are on display at the Stevens hotel, where 1,500 music dealers, members of three associations, will start three day conventions today.

Edwin R. Weeks of Binghamton, N. Y., president of the National Association of Music Merchants, said the exhibits were much more elaborate than at any past convention. Robert A. Schmitt of Minneapolis, head of the National Association of Sheet Music Dealers, and Percy W. Guest of Detroit, president of the National Retail Musical Dealers association, asserted that member attendance would be much larger than in 1934.

It is expected that the dealers will adopt policies outlining their attitude toward voluntary trade codes.

Green a Favorite in Fashion World After Long Neglect

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Overlooked and neglected for many seasons, green is now just about the most popular color you can wear or use. Some of the smartest sports clothes, the kind designed for active sports such as tennis and golf, are of all-white, cooled with a belt of vivid grass green or the outline of the top edged with a small band of the same green.

The coolest looking street clothes are of white with grass green accents. Green jackets complete the cool charm of an all white sleeveless and backless tailored white dress and white dotted green silk street suits are unquestionably the coolest looking outfits you can wear.

The most decorative party dresses, made with ruffles and flounces, come in all shades of pale green and some deeper shades. The pale green shades are as cool and as crisp as cucumbers and are made with wide billowing skirts. Most of them have matching capes to tie around the shoulders.

Cotton lace and trick cotton weaves in all tones of green also are going out fast for summer party going. Cool leaf green velvet bows and sashes trim ruffled white organdies and green linen sandals can be found to match the velvet. For a change from wearing flowers or any metal bandeau in your hair, try a chaplet of green leaves.

In the same shop where most of these green clothes were found, you also will see the sunburst plaited silk evening cape in white. . . . It is long, swings dashingly around your knees when you walk and is a shorter model of what Joan Crawford wore in one of her latest films.

Fashion photograph. . . . A cool white dress, cut and fitted in slim tailored silhouette, uses a dark belted jacket as a contrast. A large diamond shape openwork motif is in the back and repeated in both sleeves. The low narrow collar is held in place with a pair of corded ball buttons. Available in a Chicago shop.

Park Concerts Prove Chicago a Music Lover

Audiences Listen Well; Flock to Libraries.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

By making a practice of going to the nightly band concerts at Grant park, one hears a great deal of the good music which, through acquaintance and friendship, is known as popular, and one also sees an unfailingly impressive drama—the drama of the crowds that assemble there.

When the Woman's Symphony orchestra played there last night under the direction of Ebba Sundstrom, there was information that the audience numbered something like 50,000. There was another of the same sort the night before to hear Max Bendix and his band. In three weeks crowds of that size have become so frequent that they hardly arouse comment. But there is no getting away from the fact that this is an important development. These huge audiences come and come.

They surely ought to be inspiring to the organizations that play before them, not only from their size, but from their silence during the music and their hearty applause after it. Another interesting sidelight developed last night in the form of a statement that since these concerts started there has been such a demand at the libraries for scores and musical reference books that a strict enforcement of the time limit for keeping them has been renewed.

In other words, music this summer means more than the two hours of evening performances.

The soloists of the week-end were both women of low voice. Ada Paggi, mezzo-soprano of the Chicago Opera, appeared Saturday night, and to hear her sing Schubert's "Serenade" and the Mexican "Estrellita" was to hear good singing. Mildred Smith Bolan made a similar hit last night with the contralto aria, "O Don Fatale," from Verdi's "Don Carlos," also with an encore and on a later appearance. Miss Sundstrom and the orchestra demonstrated that there are symphonies belonging to the popular class by the performance of three movements of Tschaikowsky's sixth and last in this class.

The Chicago band, directed by Victor Grabel, will play tonight, assisted by the American quartet, a vocal organization. The program:

1. A Summer Night's Dream Overture.. ..... Suppe
2. Selections from the operetta "Maytime" ..... Romberg
3. Kol Nidre ..... Bruch
4. Suite—"Neapolitan Scenes" ..... Massenet
5. Overture—"Libussa" ..... Smetana
6. [a] "Yesterthoughts" ..... Victor Herbert
   [b] "Madamoiselli Coquette" ..... Charles O'Neill
7. "Kamenoi Ostrow" ..... Rubenstein
8. [a] Quartet from "Rigoletto" ..... Verdi
   [b] "Carry Me back to Old Virginny" ..... Bland-Seder
9. Overture—"Roman Carnival" ... Berlioz

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sherif of Monterey county, in early Spanish California, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in many murders. Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. He receives a note from Ysabel, hinting of a mysterious danger and begging his aid. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. He is advised by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty. He tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. It wins him welcome at the Alvado ranch. He is invited to a rodeo to be held there in a week. During the rodeo the warring families hold a traditional three day truce. Ysabel Ortega is facing a forced marriage with her cousin, Ramon. Her uncle refuses to tell her the secret of her birth, as he had promised to do on her 18th birthday. She appeals to Rocky, who promises to delay the priest's arrival. José Alvado, in love with Ysabel, ventures to Ortega ranch and is held a hostage. The Ortegas arrive at the Alvado ranch for the rodeo. Francesca is jealous of Ysabel and hints to her that she is engaged to Chris. Chris is bewildered by Ysabel's coolness. The night of the rodeo ball Ysabel's uncle allows her to wear her mother's jewels. She plans to escape at dawn with Rocky's aid. Before she is able to carry out her plans the Ortegas have her kidnaped and sent back to their ranch where she is imprisoned in a cell-like room.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

HER MOTHER'S BLESSING.

Before Ysabel could recover from her amazement the sliding panel was pushed back in place. She darted over to it and examined it almost convinced that she was dreaming, except for the tangible evidence of the bread and milk.

The sight of the food made her realize how famished she was, and, without waiting further to question its mysterious appearance, she eagerly drank down the milk and munched the dry bread.

It was easy enough now to see her uncle's purpose! What was there to prevent him from keeping her a prisoner, and starving her into submission?

With a sudden fury at his daring to do this to her Ysabel raged around the room, examining every corner of it.

Perhaps there was some other trick besides that of the secret panel?

She pulled the wooden chest away from the wall and looked behind it, but the gray adobe stretched smooth and unbroken.

As she pushed against the chest to slide it back into place she noticed it with sudden attention. It was not an ordinary chest, but evidently intended for a traveling one judging by the lether edges, studded with steel nails.

For a moment she was too weak to read beyond the first line.

Ysabel lifted the lid and looked in. It was empty, but the space struck her as surprisingly small for the size of the chest.

A sudden idea seized her, and, with her breath coming fast, she pulled out her handkerchief, measured the depth inside, and then measured the outside, from the top down to the floor. There was a good six inches difference!

Impelled by an urgency that seemed to be exerted on her by some strange force outside herself, Ysabel knelt down beside the chest and ran her fingers along the inside edge of the bottom of it.

It was apparently smooth and unbroken, and Ysabel experienced an acute sense of disappointment even while her reason told her how foolish she was.

What if tnere was a false bottom to the chest? That wasn't going to help her get out of her prison!

In spite of this realization that same compelling force seemed to urge her on to further effort.

She stepped inside the chest and stamped on it, all her excitement returning at the conviction that it gave out a hollow sound that you could not get by stamping on something solid.

Kneeling down inside it, she examined minutely every inch.

A startled gasp escaped her as her fingers suddenly encountered a tiny raised place, and the next instant there was a click as though a spring had been released.

Climbing breathlessly out of the chest Ysabel reached for the corresponding place on the opposite side, and again she heard the click as she pressed against the wood.

Slipping her nails under the edge she felt it give with the pressure she put on it, and, hardly daring to breathe in her excitement, gradually she felt the bottom of the chest give as she slowly lifted it up.

Another minute and she had it out, revealing a narrow space with some papers, yellow with age, scattered about in it.

With trembling hands Ysabel collected them, and started to sort them out.

They were written in Spanish, in a clear flowing handwriting and with a dizzy sense of unreality. Ysabel stared incredulously at the page that was marked number one.

For a moment she was too weak to read beyond the first line that had so startled her; then, with a fury of concentration, she bent to the manuscript in her hands as the past opened its pages to her astonished eyes with the story her uncle had refused to divulge.

"THE STORY OF YSABEL ORTEGA BORANDA."

"To whoever may read this story, I swear that every word is true. It it falls into the hands of my enemy, Guido Ortega, then this last effort is lost; except, that if he reads these words of mine, he will know that I curse him from my soul, and that, in this world or the next, that curse will follow him. If there is a God in Heaven, he cannot escape it.

"I dare not hope these pages will come to the eyes of my daughter, though I pray with all my soul that it may be so, and that she may learn her history from her unfortunate mother.

"My mother, Bianca Alvado, defied the ancient feud and ran away with Carlos Ortega. They were married at the Carmel mission and fled from Monterey on the first boat for Spain.

"There I was born, the only child of my parents, and through them, both of whom was the eldest child, the heir to the Ortega, and also, the Alvado ranches.

"Until after my marriage, and the death of my parents, I knew nothing of their early history, or of my inheritance.

"At the time my father died my daughter, Ysabel, was a year old, and my husband, Juan Boranda, had suffered severe business losses. On learning of my inheritance we decided to come to California and establish our claim to it.

"On the train from New York, by an unhappy coincidence, was Guido Ortega. He talked to my husband in the smoking car, but without mentioning his name. My husband, finding that he came from California, asked him about the ranches, and told him enough for him to realize my identity.

"That night there was a wreck, and my husband was killed. Wild with grief and despair, I allowed Guido Ortega to befriend me.

"He told me his name was Cortez and that he came from northern California, but assured me that he would see me safely to my destination, and put me in the hands of the right people to claim my inheritance for me.

"My caution was dulled by my misery, and I trusted everything to him. Although he, himself, had suffered a broken arm in the wreck, he attended to all the details of burying my husband and getting me and my baby to a hospital where I could recover enough from the shock of the wreck, and my tragic loss, to go on.

"After a few days I started again, and under Guido Ortega's treacherous guidance allowed myself to be brought to this God-forsaken spot.

"For me, that is the end of the story. Once here he has made me a prisoner in this room. I am completely in his power. He has taken my baby from me and everything of value I possess, such as jewels and money.

"He is deliberately trying to starve me and drive me mad, so that there will be no danger of my laying claim to his ranch.

"With the cruelty of a fiend he tells me his future plans. He is claiming that I was the wife of his brother, whom he had gone to New York to find. He was on his way back after discovering that his brother had died when he met us.

"It is hard to believe in the goodness of God when I see how plausibly everything works into his hands!

"But I do believe! Somehow, Guido Ortega will not be allowed to bring up my Ysabel as his niece and marry her to his son, so that he can claim both his own and the Alvado ranches. No! God will not let that be!

"God will protect these words, which I will hide in the secret place in my traveling chest. If Guido Ortega knew of that he would not let me have it. But he does not know! And somehow these words will be preserved to convict him of his villany.

"Whoever reads these words, find my Ysabel! Tell her of her inheritance, and that she has her mother's love and blessing."

Tears streamed down Ysabel's cheeks as she read these last words. She leaned weakly against the chest that had yielded up such a testimony of misery.

Decline of the Family Often Parents' Fault

Children Are Indifferent to Home When It's Dull.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Frequently mothers write telling how little pleasure they get out of their daughters, how dissappointing is this thing called "family life" how quickly the mother and father are relegated by their youngsters to ranks of the "old folks."

Another of these parental wails came in this week's mail. Curiously, they come usually from mothers whose lives are largely dependent upon their families for interest and entertainment.

The answer probably lies in that oft repeated statement that the home props are tottering. That the age in which we live gives little pause for companionship between members of the family.

But if parents and the children are not as close to each other as they used to be, is it the children's fault entirely? Isn't it quite as much the parents fault? Aren't the latter just as keen as are the youngsters about seeking attractions outside of home? Bridge parties, clubs, and the like absorb considerable time and interest of the parent group. Parents just assume that the youngsters have their own interests, their own companions, and carelessly let the matter of closer family relationship take its own course.

We thought of this because of the family group which proves that there can be a beautiful companionship between parents and children—providing parents give a little thought and planning to provide amusement within the home. In this family we speak of throughout the entire summer there's a picnic night well planned beforehand by mother, toward which the youngsters, all in their teens, look forward with delight. A family get together on Sunday night is a common occasion of festivity among them. The two older girls—15 and 17, have an occasional evening when as dinner hostesses they're permitted to plan and serve the meal and provide games for the "family party." If the party fails to come off as the rest of the group thinks it should there's no end of chaffing, so that there has arisen quite a little competition in this particular field.

This is but a sample, of course, of ways of keeping the family in closer touch. If the youngsters are eager to eat and run, isn't it perhaps because there is nothing planned, sometimes nothing permitted, to occupy the hours.

If parents are stiff and stodgy about the sort of thing the youngsters call fun, why blame them for not caring to spend time with you? True, it is not an easy role to compete with away-from-home attraction, but if parents got to thinking up ways and means, we feel sure there'd be less isolation of the older group in the good time plans.

1 Di.	Pass	1 Ht.	2 Cl.
2 Di.	Pass	Pass	2 Ht.
3 Di.	4 Cl.	4 Di.	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

I am charitably assuming that West opened the bidding under the theory that there was no time like the present to show his semi-solid suit. There is nothing like an opponent's part score to encourage bidding and rebidding. And East, with a wealth of kings, naturally thought that West was overburdened with length and strength. It was only fair to raise him to four after he had gone on to three almost unaided.

North and South would have made four clubs. This hand showed us a side of West which we never dreamed, and we declare firmly that West would have never opened spades. Thus the four diamond bid might have been a fair sacrifice had not this play developed:

North, trusting his beloved partner, led off with the ten of hearts. It held the trick. A second heart was taken by South's jack. South tentatively cashed the ace of clubs. His partner gave him the four spot and West put the king on the trick. South hastily garnered his ace of hearts and played back the fourth round of the suit.

West could be trusted to trump that and North could be trusted not to overtrump. Dummy was entered with the queen of clubs and a diamond played through South's "strength." To West's joy the jack held the trick. A spade was led to the king, and another diamond played back. To West's ill concealed horror South showed out. Thus West ran the gamut of emotion. North took the queen and ace and forced West with a club. By this time West had one less trump than North, and consequently he could take no more than his one remaining diamond. Altogether West netted one club, three diamonds, and a spade—down five at a contract of four.

Miss Rena Buck to Be Bride of W. M. Robinson

Fall Wedding Second of Year in Family.

Prof. and Mme. Siegfried will be guests of the Alliance Française at luncheon at the Tavern club tomorrow.

Harlem Night Club Party at Exmoor Wednesday.

The Exmoor Country club is going to have a Harlem Night Club party Wednesday night at the pool, preceded by a buffet supper in the clubhouse.

The Geneva Golf club is having a supper party Wednesday night followed by a talk entitled, "With Lawrence in Palestine," by Flight Captain Frederick G. Ibbett of the Royal Air force, who was a close friend of the late T. E. Lawrence. Mrs. Nathan D. McClure and Mrs. Arthur Farwell will be hostesses at the supper.

The Richard Sutton Bulls, who are leaving Thursday for a month on Gratiot Washburne's ranch in Wyoming, have a daughter, Ellen, who is enjoying a summer in Europe. Miss Bull, who will not be a debutante for two or three years, is traveling with several other students and will return in September to enter her senior year at the North Shore Country Day school.

Louise Blossom Abroad, Barbara Going to Camp.

Although they are still a trifle young to join the ranks of the debutantes, Louise and Barbara Blossom, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. of Lake Forest, are nevertheless having an eventful summer. Louise, who will be a freshman at Smith college this fall, is now touring England with her grandmother, Mrs. George W. Blossom, and her sister, Barbara, is leaving early in August for Camp Kechewa in northern Michigan. Mrs. Blossom and her young son, George W. Blossom III, also are anticipating a trip in August, but have not yet decided its destination.

A young woman who would be presented to society this winter if it were not for her great interest in music is Miss Marian Bard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Norwood Bard of Highland Park. Her older sister, Dorothy Bard, "bowed" at a lovely garden party three years ago.

Miss Marian has completed one year at Sarah Lawrence college, where she will return this winter. She is studying composing seriously, and even during these warm summer months she is working at her music in town.

The Ralph A. Bards' second daughter, Katharine, has as serious a vocation as her cousin, but hers is dramatic art. She is studying at the Bar Harbor Drama Festival school this summer and plans to enter Sarah Lawrence in the fall. She, too, is not interested in making a debut this season, although she may do so in a year or two. Her older sister, Miss Janet Bard, was presented the same year as Miss Dorothy Bard. Janet is at home this summer.

Hannaford Family Busy with Travels.

It would keep a person quite busy to follow the travels of the Foster Hannaford family during the next few months. Mrs. Hannaford is now at her summer home at White Bear, Minn., with two daughters, Tayloe and Charlotte, while her younger children, Priscilla K. and Robert Ogden Hannaford, spend the summer touring France. Probably Priscilla and her post-debutante sister, Tayloe, will pass each other on the former's way back, for Tayloe has decided to go to the Sorbonne this autumn. It was just last winter that she made her debut, and after her graduation from Sarah Lawrence college in June, she set her heart on a year of study in France.

Mrs. Hannaford will return home in September in time to see Priscilla commence her junior year at the North Shore Country Day school.

The T. Philip Swifts and their children are spending a few weeks in Jasper Park, Alberta, Can.

Value of Sleep to Child Cannot Be Overrated

He Must Get Adequate Rest at All Costs.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My baby is so tired, but he won't go to sleep."

"My baby is only a year old, but my mother-in-law tells me to stop the afternoon nap."

"How many hours should a 1 year old baby sleep?"

"I put my son in his bed sometimes as often as twelve times before he stays there. What shall I do?

"My little girl screams sometimes for two hours when she's put to bed."

So run the letters I receive from parents.

Such frantic mothers! Such discouraged letters! Such wrong tactics! Such clever, persistent, resourceful babies! Such complete confusion.

Adequate sleep is of the greatest importance to the welfare of a child—both mentally and physically. This is especially true during the first three years, as any one who has ever watched a child for all his waking hours realizes. Tremendous energy is used, and tremendous physical and mental growth goes on in these early years. Children, at least, seem to have solved the problem of perpetual motion.

Some authorities even say that fatigue is one of the most important elements in causing neurotic traits in children. The whole sense of well-being can be impaired or disturbed when the child is being denied the sleep it requires.

With most children good sleeping habits, unlike Topsy, do not "just grow." They are usually the result of wise management and proper handling on the part of mothers and fathers.

Want to Watch Sox Play Browns? Write a Letter to Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

For the benefit of any youngsters who missed my column in the Sunday paper, I'll tell you once more that I've been invited by J. Louis Comiskey to bring 100 boys and girls with me to one of the Sox baseball games. So on Aug. 2 I'm going to take 50 boys and 50 girls out to Comiskey park to see the Chicago team play St. Louis.

I want as my guests youngsters who really love baseball, who are true Sox fans, and who'll honestly be appreciative of an opportunity to see a real major league ball team in action.

If you think you're just that sort, write me a letter and tell me all the reasons why you think I should invite you—and if you write a good, sincere letter, maybe I will.

Each boy or girl must write his or her own letter. You may not write for your little brother or your pal who lives around the corner. Have them write for their own invitations, although they can be mailed with your letter if you wish. Every letter must include the name, address and age of the writer—if you forget any one of these three items I can't award an invitation to you.

Finally, all letters must reach me by next Thursday, because that's the day I've set aside to read 'em all.

Address Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

CHILDREN'S SUITS.

Small boys and girls are wearing shirtwaist type costumes the same as mother wears, and they are jaunty looking, too. The patch pockets will be hailed with delight by any boy or girl. White piqué with a nautical blue for the buttons will be cool looking. Lilac gingham checked with white, with plain lilac gingham collar and pockets, is another smart idea. Use the plain gingham for brother's shorts.

The pattern, No. 2534, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. This pattern provides for both models in the same size. If different sizes are wanted, two patterns will have to be ordered, and it will cost 10 cents each. Size 8 requires 2⅛ yards of 35 inch material for the dress, and 2 yards of 35 inch material for the suit.

Boll and Flower Block

BY NANCY CABOT.

A simple applique block of this type is an easy one for the beginner. There are not so many intricate corners to turn or pieces to fit into place. Bias binding simplifies the problem of turning in perfect edges of the green stem. A quilt diagram accompanying the pattern shows a suggested block arrangement which is exceptionally good looking. Only 20 applique blocks and 22 plain ones are used, requiring a minimum of time for completing the quilt.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY MARY MEADE.

Yesterday's space was so full of general chit-chat about the procedure of simple jam and jelly making (from our fine supply of July berries) that we simply couldn't make room for some of the recipes in which we thought you'd be interested.

So today they come into their own—a fine bunch of foolproof recipes that will insure a delightfully stocked pantry for the less bountiful months to come.

Gooseberry and Sour Cherry Jam.

4 cups (2 pounds) prepared fruit
7 cups (3½ pounds) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit, crush thoroughly or grind about one quart of fully ripe gooseberries. Stem and pit one quart of fully ripe sour cherries (don't forget the new pen point for a pitter if you're not already provided with something of the sort) and crush thoroughly or grind. Combine the fruits.

Measure the sugar and prepared fruit into a large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and during boiling. Boil hard for one minute. Remove from heat and stir in pectin. Skim, pour quickly into sterile glasses, and paraffin at once. This makes about 10 glasses, 6 ounces each.

Red Raspberry and Currant Jelly.

4½ cups (2¼ pounds) juice
7 cups (3½ pounds) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare the juice, crush thoroughly about 1½ pounds of fully ripened currants. Add a fourth cup of water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Crush thoroughly 1½ quarts of fully ripened raspberries. Combine fruits, place in a jelly bag, and strain out juice.

Measure the sugar and juice into a large kettle, mix well, and bring to a boil as quickly as possible. Add the pectin, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for a half minute, remove from heat, skim, and pour quickly. Paraffin the hot jelly at once. This makes 11 6-ounce glasses.

Spiced Currant Jelly.

2 quarts currants
1 stick cinnamon
1 dozen whole cloves
Sugar

Wash the currants and remove leaves and larger stems. Mash slightly and cook slowly until the color begins to fade. Drain in a jelly bag. Tie the spices in a bit of cheesecloth and boil in the fruit juice for 10 minutes. Then remove the bag of spices and add three-quarters cup of sugar for each cup of fruit juice. Boil until the sirup will fall from the spoon in sheetlike glasses, and seal at once.

Gooseberry Conserve.

3 quarts gooseberries
1 pound raisins
1½ cups walnut meats
1 pound crushed pineapple
3 cups sugar

Cook the washed, stemmed gooseberries until they burst. Add the sugar, raisins, and pineapple, and boil slowly until the mixture is thick. Add the chopped nut meats and pack conserve into clean, hot jars. Seal immediately.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—We try awfully hard to keep our mind on our beauty business, but every once in a while we get led astray on fashions. Such clothes as you see around the studios!

You should see what Adrian has done for that Crawford girl in "Glitter." Every change of costume is thrilling. The last thing she wore as the production went its way was a wedding gown, plus veil, that is our idea of the sartorial berries, with cream.

It's the veil arrangement that we're mad about. It hangs, not from the head, but from the shoulders—which is a brand new and utterly swell idea. Adrian fancies icy blue for weddings. The gown, therefore, is ice satin; the veil is tulle in a blue a shade deeper. It hangs, like a mist of blue cloud, from a wide ruff of small blue flowers that circles the neck. It cloaks the gown all around; the effect is somewhat medieval and really breathtaking. With it Crawford as a bride wears a small hat. If you've said "yes" to your dream man consider this as costuming for the big event. It will be not only startlingly new but smarter than anything ever seen in your town before.

Then there are the hostess pajamas designed by Helen Myron of Fox for Claire Trevor. O, for the life of a loller! The wide but not flared trousers are white matelassé, all shiny and elegant, with a band of white bugle beads at the bottom. The blouse is a cloudy, peasant sleeved affair of white soufflé, with Batteau neckline and wide wrist bands also outlined in bands of the beads. There's a brief bolero jacket of the matelassé, in case of a draft, we suppose. It's a confection, if ever we saw one. Destined, too, for Miss Trevor's personal wardrobe—which is certainly a break for Miss Trevor.

Tinting Ghastly Joke if Nails Are Not Clean

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If our men think American women go far with the finger nail tinting, they might read about the East Indian princesses and how they don't stop at the finger nails, but go in for all sorts of designs on the palms of the hands. Perhaps I had better not put the notion in our women's heads; for, what with the toenail decoration noted this year, our gals might just up and start palm and arm and even face motifs to attract attention.

But I was reading of an Englishman's journey through Europe the other night. In some little, out of the way French inn the novelist reports an enormous car of American make pulling up, out of which poured the usual gentleman with his paunch and loud commands, followed by a wife and two daughters, the latter in the latest dress, obviously Paris outfitted, nails lackered a brilliant red—and dirty finger nails.

Those dirty finger nails took on to the novelist the symbol of a whole background of cultural interest.

Often with the nail whiteners, good as they are for the purpose intended, an ashy gray undernail results unless the whitening is washed out after it has been inserted under the nail in the manicuring process. I speak here of the manicure whitening, not the little pencils used for emergency whitening away from the manicure table. But with the latter, too, unless the nail is scrubbed out thoroughly and is immaculately clean before the pencil is run under the nail, there is bound to be an ashy smudginess.

Finger nails, as a matter of cold fact, now are an index of a woman's fastidiousness. If she's careless about them she is bound to be judged careless about unseen matters of grooming. Anyway, it's what the men note. Whether the nail tips are glamorously white is more important than the nail tint.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

George Hides in Hotel to Dodge Questions.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—Former King George II. of Greece still was in London today and was furious that the extensive secret preparations for his return to Greece to take over the throne had leaked out.

EX-KING GEORGE II.

His secretary requested newspapers and news agencies to refrain from publishing anything concerning the former ruler's movements.

Nevertheless, the exclusive west end hotel where George has his residence was mobbed by newspapermen and photographers. They were parked at both entrances of the hotel and were refused any information. The hotel staf refused to send up messages or receive telephone calls. The king stayed in all day and dodged from windows when he saw cameras pointed at him from windows and roof tops opposite.

The former king thinks it undignified to let the Greek people know he is so anxious to hop back on the throne again. He wants them to believe that he has given the matter considerable attention and finally decided to return if he is wanted only for the country's sake, sacrificing himself for the good of the cause.

Second, there are still a large number of anti-royalists in Greece, extremists who would not be backward in attempting to bump him off.

Third, he may now have to revise all his carefully worked out plans, which would be an expensive business.

Several visitors arrived for the former king. They were carrying heavy briefcases. Later the mayor of Athens arrived in a huge American automobile and hurried to George's suite.

With him was a bodyguard carrying a heavy lether bag chained to his wrist. The mayor had lunch with the ex-king and his party after which he had a conference lasting until tea time.

CLEANING PLANT BURGLAR SLAIN BY WATCHMAN

A man identified through cards in his pockets as Winton Pennell, 31 years old, 1244 North Dearborn street, was shot and killed by a colored watchman early today after he had broken into the Dehmlow cleaning and dyeing plant at 3908 Broadway.

The watchman, Samuel Lowe, 6739 St. Lawrence avenue, told the police that when he discovered the burglar, who had shattered a window to enter, he first called on him to surrender and then fired. When the man fled to the alley in the rear Lowe followed and fired again. Four bullets struck the fugitive, and he was almost instantly killed.

Two girls living near by reported that they had seen the burglar and a woman, both apparently intoxicated, as they went from the street toward the rear of the shop. The woman fled, and Lowe did not see her.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Expert Views Crops.

July 21, 1935.

DR. EARL SIEVEKING, crop specialist of Bloomington, Ill., completed Friday his midsummer inspection of more than twenty different kinds of crops included in the tests at The Tribune experimental farm, two miles west and one mile south of Wheaton.

Practically all of the crops, including many rare and unusual plants, are making a good showing. Some of the plants, such as peanuts, soy beans, and flax, are in bloom.

Dr. Sieveking found the cotton thriving. He says that the plants have a good color and likely are to form bolls, but the bolls may not break open this fall to expose the lint.

The tobacco plants were given a late start, and are only three or four inches tall. In a normal season they should be about a foot high.

Great interest is being taken by Dr. Sieveking and other crop experts, as well as farmers, in the sericea lespedeza now growing in the plots. This lespedeza is a perennial which normally lives through the winter. Drouth caused almost a complete failure of the sericea strain of lespedeza in the plots at The Tribune experimental farm near Yorkville last year. Friday Dr. Sieveking found the plants at Wheaton in good condition.

Corean [Korean] and Harbin, both annual lespedeza strains, are making a fine showing in the plots. Dr. Sieveking expects the Corean strain to reseed itself.

Atlas Sorge, a superior forage and silage crop developed by the Kansas agricultural experiment station, is thriving on the Wheaton plots. Under favorable conditions in Kansas this crop has produced as much as 17 tons of forage to the acre.

The growing of sugar cane, a common crop in the southern states, is being tested at the Wheaton farm for the first time this year. Dr. Sieveking estimates that from 80 to 85 per cent of the cane stalk nodes rotted in the ground. Even the nodes started in the greenhouse have made a poor showing. With a dry season the results might have been different.

Bison flax, a wilt-resistant seed producing variety, is thriving. The plants, 30 inches high, started blooming ten days ago. The J. W. S. variety of fiber flax is making a good showing with plants about 38 inches tall. J. W. S. also started blooming about ten days ago.

HARVEST HANDS' REVOLT BLOCKED BY RELIEF CUTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Midwestern relief officials apparently have the "harvest hand" revolt under control.

Relief projects in many rural communities have been halted, curtailed, or temporarily suspended in the face of the reports that relief clients who preferred taking relief or working on government works projects were creating an acute shortage in farm labor.

When reports reached the Illinois Emergency Relief commission that able-bodied relief clients, preferring the higher wages on government projects, were declining to accept harvest employment, work relief projects in rural areas of the state were stopped until after the harvest.

Several relief projects in Kansas were suspended because there were no relief clients available during the harvest.

In Nebraska, twenty-six counties were cut from federal relief allotments and allotments of fifteen others were reduced by 50 per cent.

A number of Iowa counties were denied relief by state relief chiefs and able bodied men on relief rolls were admonished to accept employment in the harvest fields after numerous farmers complained that relief workers had turned down offers of work. In North Dakota all but specialized projects have been halted until after the harvest.

PERSIANS RIOT, KILL WEARERS OF NEW STYLE HATS

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP)—The Tass [soviet] News agency reported tonight that many persons were killed in Meshed, Persia, in disorders resulting from a government decree that the people wear European style hats instead of native headgear.

The report said that the decree had been enforced without serious incidents in Teheran, but that in the city of Meshed priests had incited a portion of the populace to attack wearers of the new style hats. Riots spread through the city, and many persons were reported killed and injured.

The major casualties when troops opened fire on rioters concentrated at a mosque.

CHALLENGE GIVEN ROOSEVELT TO KEEP '32 PLEDGES

Liberty League Recalls Idle Promises.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—In an analysis of the expansion of federal burocracy in violation of the 1932 Democratic campaign pledges, the American Liberty league tonight declared that if the public is to have confidence in the pledges of the administration in the next campaign it is time that a start should be made on redemption of those of 1932.

The league, which is a nonpartisan organization dedicated to war on governmental excesses, cited the platform adopted by the Democratic party at Chicago in 1932. It also quoted from President Roosevelt's acceptance of the nomination at Chicago and campaign speech at Sioux City.

The Democratic economy plank reads: "We advocate an immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government."

"Must Abolish Useless Offices."

The league quotes from Roosevelt's acceptance speech:

"For three long years I have been going up and down this country preaching that government—federal, state, and local—costs too much. I shall not stop that preaching. As an immediate program of action, we must abolish useless offices.

"We must eliminate actual perfunctions of government—functions, in fact, that are not definitly essential to the continuance of government. We must merge, we must consolidate subdivisions of government, and, we, like the private citizens, must give up luxuries which we can no longer afford."

Full Value Pledged.

A second quotation from President Roosevelt is made from his campaign speech at Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 29, 1932. It follows:

"I shall use this position of high responsibility to discuss up and down the country, in all seasons, the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of government, of cutting out the underbrush around our governmental structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid by taxation. This I pledge you and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers. . . .

"I accuse the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history, one which has piled up bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs or reduced earning power of the people. Bureaus and burocrats have been retained at the expense of the taxpayer. . . .

"On my part, I ask you to assign me the task of reducing the annual operating expenses of the national government."

Against these pledges the Liberty league cites the performance of the New Deal. The civil officers and employes of the executive branch of the government have increased by 148,825 between March 1, 1933, and May 31, 1935. Of the new positions 35,737 are in the District of Columbia and 112,888 in the states.

YALE FOOTBALL COACH PRAISES ALL-STAR GAME

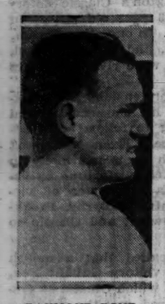
BY RAYMOND W. POND.

[Football Coach at Yale University.]

The football game between the All-Americans and the Chicago Bears of the National Professional league, which will be played Aug. 29 at Soldiers' field, Chicago, has my heartiest endorsement. I didn't see last year's contest, but I followed it closely through the newspapers and radio. It seemed to me that this was a real battle. It brought together the finest field of players in the country, and I know that the football fans of the nation were interested. They must have been, when 80,000 attended and the radio carried the story of the game to every state.



RAYMOND POND.

The interest this year is greater, I believe. I know I am looking forward to this pre-season battle. The newspapers which coöperated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in the poll to select the college players attested their interest by opening their columns for the balloting.

They're Evenly Matched.

There was no criticism of last year's game. Perhaps the scoreless tie was a disappointment to the Bears, who, I suspect, thought they would win, but when a team is selected from the outstanding college players of the nation, that team has all the material necessary to produce an eleven capable of holding its own with the professionals. In brief, how could two greater teams be selected? One is actually All-American; the other is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in professional football.

This game is splendid for football. Public attention is focused on the sport much as the All-Star baseball game increases the fans' interest in that game. And since the net receipts are donated to charity, I believe there remains no basis for criticism.

I know that the players who have finished their college competition look forward to a chance to participate. They like football and they've made good in college. Many will not continue playing, but none would miss a chance to play in an All-American lineup.

That the fans of the country have the right to select the All-American squad is democratic in conception and it is the idea which has created interest in all sections of the country. Thousands voted for the college players even though they will not be able to attend the game.

No Longer Sectional Game.

Some of the 1934 college players may continue in the professional game. My experience with the professionals, and I know many of them personally, convinces me that they are gentlemen on and off the field. We all know how they can play football. Professional football is gaining in popular favor and is conducted soundly.

Football no longer belongs to any one section of the country, nor does it belong to the amateurs or the professionals. There is room for as many teams as can be organized and all prosper because football is a great game, a thrilling hand to hand conflict. Naturally, the better the team the more followers that team has. It follows, then, that an All-American team of last year's college players will have thousands of fans. The Bears will have many supporters. The result will be another record crowd and an intensely interesting game.

No other contest like this has been held. I congratulate those who are fortunate enough to see it. I also extend congratulations to the college players chosen to play. They have been honored and I am certain they will not disappoint the fans who have elected them. No matter which team wins, football is the real winner.

Maruffa Sets Pace in Race to Mackinac

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard U. S. C. G. Escanaba, July 21.—[By Radio.]—Maruffa, Henry Babson's new 67 foot yawl flying the colors of the Chicago Yacht club, tonight was leading the annual 331 mile Chicago to Mackinac Island race by five miles.

Maruffa was abreast of Point Betsie, Mich., 203 miles north-northwest of Chicago and sailing smoothly in a fresh southwest wind. Observers aboard the Escanaba, however, reported a falling barometer and the racing yachts may run into a real blow before reaching Mackinac.

Lynn Williams' schooner Elizabeth, nearly ten miles behind Maruffa, is given a good chance to repeat its 1934 victory in the racing division. Maruffa is in the cruising division.

Dorello, schooner owned by Lyman Dwight of Milwaukee was five miles astern of Maruffa tonight and Herman Karnstedt's Hope, also from Milwaukee Yacht club, was close behind.

Among the boats that passed the Escanaba late this afternoon, all sailing at nearly top speed, were Robert Benedict's Valkyrie, James R. Lowe's Ponjola, Norman Marsh's Marchioness, Bennett & Bohnen's Truant, and D. H. Ross's Bangalore.

Mickey Walker Tries Ring Comeback Tonight

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker, former holder of the welter and light heavyweight boxing titles, today pronounced himself in perfect condition for his comeback bout with John Anderson, Swedish light heavyweight, in Brooklyn tomorrow night.

Cubs, Sox Both Third; Big Chance as Leaders Mix

You'll have to go 'way back in your memory to find a parallel to this:

The Cubs and White Sox this morning are in third place, the Cubs four games out of first place and the White Sox four and one-half games out of first place. While the Cubs are opening a series with the fifth place Dodgers this afternoon the Sox will be opening a series with the sixth place Athletics.

And here's the exciting part of it—the two teams ahead of the Cubs, the Giants and the Cardinals, will be at each others' throats in St. Louis and the two teams ahead of the Sox, the Yankees and the Tigers, will be battling each other in New York. The second place teams in each instance are last year's world series contestants.

Aiken Knights Defeat Mills for Polo Title

Bedminster, N. J., July 21.—(AP)—Aiken Knights succeeded the Burnt Mills club as the National Junior polo champions today, defeating the Texas four by the score of 13-3 before a crowd of 10,000. Mills, with Cecil Smith far off form, suffered some bad breaks, but were no match for Aiken in team play.

Two Aces on One Hole; Well, That's His Story

Dayton, O., July 21.—(AP)—Joe Cox of Dayton made a hole in one on the 12th at Community Country club today, then did it again on the same hole on a second round. Cox, an Ohio State university tackle in 1928, drove with a No. 4 iron each time on the 213 yard, downhill par 3 hole.

COOPER SHOOTS RECORD 271 FOR ST. PAUL TITLE

Horton Smith Is Second with 275.

St. Paul, Minn., July 21.—(AP)—Harry Cooper, 141 pound shotmaking wizard from Chicago, today won the $5,000 St. Paul open championship with a record 72 hole total of 271. This total broke the scoring mark for the tournament by seven strokes and was four better than that of the man who formerly held the record at 278, Horton Smith of Chicago, whose total of 275 was good for second place.

Cooper shot every round in the sixties, a feat he never before had accomplished. He fired a 68 to land in a second place tie at the end of the first round, came back with a 67 yesterday to take the lead over a tightly bunched field that cracked par 44 times in three days over the par 72 Keller municipal course, and then stayed out in front today with another pair of 68's.

First Prize $1,200.

His scoring outburst, most of it accomplished under a burning sun, was worth $1,200 in prize money, running his winnings in four St. Paul opens to $6,933.33.

Cooper's score over the course was one of the lowest in golf history. The record low was set by Ky Laffoon of Chicago at the Park Hill open, Denver, last year at 266. Cooper was 17 under par, but the scoring was so dizzy that two players who broke par by one shot with 287's found themselves tied for 12th place.

Bill Kaiser, Louisville pro, won third place with rounds of 68-70-67-74—279, with Frank Walsh of Chicago and Pat Sawyer, Minneapolis amateur, tied for fourth. Walsh shot 68-73-71-71—283, while Sawyer won the low amateur medal with 70-75-70-68.

Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles pro, who led the field with an opening 67, finished in a sixth place deadlock with Denny Shute of Chicago at 284. Mangrum had 67-69-75-73 to Shute's 72-71-72-69.

Other leaders were Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., the year's leading money winner, 285; Laffoon, 285, and Bunny Torpey, Kansas City, 70-73-71-72—286.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM SPENDS A DAY AT PUTTING

LONDON, July 21.—(AP)—One match up on Germany as a result of Donald Budge's victory over Heiner Henkel yesterday, the American Davis cup team spent today in a putting contest on the greens of the Hurlingham club.

Sidney Wood of New York, who hopes to receive an emergency call in the hoped-for challenge round against Great Britain, accompanied Bill Tilden to a public hard court, where he divided four sets with the old master.

44 Qualify in Final Trials for Tribune's Annual Swim

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One hundred and fifty boys and girls now have won qualifying medals for the finals of THE TRIBUNE'S sixth annual 100 yard swimming championships which will be held Sunday afternoon in the Lincoln park lagoon. The last of the four sectional trials was held yesterday at Whealan pool and 44 received the gold medals which admit to the championships.

Under a blazing summer sun, tempered by occasional southern breezes and all too brief interims when clouds blanketed the penetrating rays, the largest group of all the preliminaries raced through a two hour program. An additional hour was required to register the swimmers.

Lawson Places Four.

The facilities at Whealan pool are the best in the city. The work of the score of clerks, judges, timers, and starter, was made easier by the splendid coöperation of the officials of the forest preserve district. Lanes marked the 50 yard course and the contestants were carefully watched by life guards.

The Lawson Y. M. C. A. swimmers secured four of the qualifying positions for boys. Other teams which placed members for the finals next Sunday were the Jewish Peoples' Institute, defending team champion; Medinah Athletic club, and Lake Shore A. C. East Chicago and Gary, Ind. also had successful contestants as well as several north shore towns.

CLASS A BOYS.

Ray Christensen, Northshore A. C.
Bill G. Albertson, 4722 North Hermitage.
Larry Knobloch, Community Recreation Center.
Ben Rosenberg, J. P. I.

Robert Amundson, Lake Shore A. C.
Jack Weber, Medinah A. C.
Dudley S. Field, Medinah A. C.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The White Sox rose up in wrathful indignation today and did a good job of dispelling the idea that talkative Buck Newsom, the high priced Senator chattel, could give them trouble after a two day rest. They subjected him to a thorough going over in the fifth inning, when three scored, and this blast, along with a mild outbreak in the seventh, was all the veteran Ted Lyons needed to record his eleventh victory of the year against three defeats. The score was 4 to 2, giving the third place Chicagoans the series, 3 games to 2.

All the 34 year old Lyons suffered as the result of his afternoon of toil was the shattering of his impressive string of scoreless innings. Two successive shutout triumphs and a seven inning runless performance had run his perfect innings to 25. Today he raised it to 28 before the Senators broke loose with their first run in the fourth. The Sox promptly offset that tally with their aforementioned assault on Newsom, and Lyons protected the margin by yielding only three hits in the last five innings.

Piet Teaches Mr. Newsom.

One Sox in particular was distressing to Newsom's hopes, as well as his pre-game boast that he thought he would give the Chicagoans about five hits. The last of the five hits Newsom figured he would concede just to appear big hearted came off Tony Piet's bat. It caused grief for some five thousand spectators and Newsom, for it was an inside the park home run in the fifth when a mate was on the base. Before the inning was concluded the Sox had raised their hit total to seven. And they produced three more before Newsom was relieved after the seventh. One of these three was a single by Piet, and it led to the fourth run.

Piet continued to be an active young man right into the ninth. He singled for his third hit, this coming while Jack Russell was serving. He went to second on a bunt by Haas, and, being an ambitious fellow, tried to sneak to third after Bonura had sent a long fly to Powell in center. Piet reached third easily, but Umpire Kolls called him out for leaving second too soon. Incidentally, Bonura ran Piet a close second for production honor. Zeke helped with a pass when Newsom was on the ropes in the fifth and singled to drive in the final run. He also singled in the fourth, but nothing came of it.

Newsom Is Lucky.

Lady Luck conducted Newsom's affairs in the fourth, or the Sox would have kicked up some real trouble for the big fellow. As a matter of fact, they had him shaky on two singles with one out in the third, but Piet and Haas popped up. The fourth opened with Bonura singling to center. Simmons whacked a low liner toward first, but Kuhel, playing close to the

46,168 WATCH FIRST BATTLE GO 11 INNINGS

Six Runs in Eighth Decide Second.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

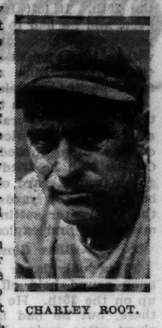
Baseball, scintillating baseball in its most sparkling form, was the order of the day yesterday as the Cubs went about the joyous business of licking the New York Giants twice before 46,168 paying guests, most of whom must have gone home jabbering that they never had spent such an afternoon in a ball park.



CHARLEY ROOT.

The Cubs, in sweeping the four game series, came from behind to win the first game, 5 to 4, winding up in the eleventh inning to give Reliever Charley Root a gloriously earned victory over Carl Hubbell. The second game gave Reliever Lon Warneke his second victory of the series, 11 to 5, the Cubs breaking up the affair after the Giants had surprised Bill Lee and everybody else by tying the score with a five run rally after two were out in the first half of the eighth.

Only 4 Games Behind.

The day's exciting outcome enabled the Cubs to move up to within four games of the panicky league leaders. The Chicagoans were 10½ games behind the New Yorkers on the night of July 4, the date on which a lot of old fashioned experts decide pennant races.

The Cubs remained 2½ games behind the second place St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated Brooklyn twice.

The games went down to the credit of relief pitchers because two fine gentlemen from the deep south, Tex Carleton and Bill Lee, found the temperature too hot for their endurance. Carleton collapsed on two doubles and homers by Harry Danning and Mel Ott, which gave the Giants four runs in the second and third innings of the first game. Lee bogged down in the eighth inning of the second game, reaching bottom when Travis Jackson knocked a homer with two on to round out a five run, score tying rally.

Root pitched magnificent ball, backed by sparkling support in the eight innings he pitched after replacing Carleton. It was the fourth game he has won as a reliever against the three teams that have been here in the current invasion. It was his second relief triumph over the Giants and his seventh victory of the season.

Start, Finish With Homers,

Warneke's verdict was his tenth favorable one of the year as well as his second of the series. As things turned out it was a pretty soft touch for Lon, though he did get hit on the foot by a pitched ball with the bases full to force the winning run across the plate. Five runs followed that, the last three on Bill Herman's second homer of the year.

Incidentally the first Cub hit of the day was a homer and the last Cub hit was a homer. The first one was by George Stainback, off Carl Hubbell, with two out in the second inning of the first game. The last one, Herman's, was on the first pitch made by Leon Chagnon after relieving Al Smith in the big eighth of the second game.

FIRST GAME

In the first game Tex Carleton seemed rather afflicted with a case of fluttering Adam's apple during the three innings he lasted, the main symptom of the ailment being the repeated pitching of his double and home run ball.

Tex got through the first inning with no more damage than a single by Terry after two were out. The teeing off started in the second inning. Leiber led off with a double into the

YATES DEFEATS BLISS, 5 AND 3, IN GOLF FINAL

Atlanta Amateur Rallies on Last Round.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 21.—[Special.]—A reversal of form after a disappointing first eighteen this morning enabled Charlie Yates, 21 year old Atlanta, Ga., golfer, to defeat Rodney Bliss of Omaha, 5 and 3, in the final of the 36th annual western amateur tournament today.

Yates, 1934 intercollegiate champion, and Bliss both were off their game in the morning round, posting medal cards of 37—39—76 which left them tied at the intermission. Yates settled down in the afternoon, however, and once he took the lead on the second hole he was never behind. He had the match well in hand at the turn in the afternoon, being 4 up after 27 holes.

Yates Shoots Par.

Yates shot par golf through the first nine in the afternoon, carding a medal 35, which included two birdies on the 20th and 21st, where he gained a two ball lead. He missed an eagle when his first putt rolled past the cup on the 20th. It left Bliss stymied, however, and he had to be content with a par five. Yates got the other birdie with a 10 foot putt around Bliss' partial stymie. Bliss also was putting for a birdie, but missed.

Bliss, who was in the rough and the traps repeatedly, cracked badly in the afternoon and twice during the incoming nine dubbed recovery shots. On the 26th he tried to get on to the green from a yard off and moved the ball only a few yards to the right. On the 30th, after getting into a trap, he missed his first explosion shot.

Bliss Blows Up.

Yates' only lapse during the afternoon round held off until he was 5 up on the 30th. He was one over par there, but he had nothing to worry about after seeing Bliss take two to get out of a sand pit.

Yates took a 6 on the 32d, but he was dormie then and his two over par came as a result of a tramp through a trap and the rough. He ended the match on the 33d with a steady par 4 as Bliss tried to hole an eighteen foot putt, then miss his second from two feet.

WIATER BATTLES TOLES TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Williams Meets Miller on White City Mat.

Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., and Roscoe Toles, Toledo, O., will meet in the main event of the heavyweight boxing show at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and Al Williams, Fox Lake, and Paul Miller, Vincennes, Ind., will be windup opponents in the wrestling card at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight.

Wiater, 1933 Golden Gloves heavyweight alternate, will be making his first start since March 29 when he fought Roy Lazer at Detroit. It was Adolph's fifth defeat, as compared to eighteen triumphs in the professional field. He will be facing a strong opponent in Toles. The latter came from behind to knock out Les Schuelte at White City recently in his Chicago début. Among other victims of Roscoe are included K. O. Christner, Alex Borshuk and Joe Lohman. Supporting matches include:

Gene Thompson vs. Sunny Jim Williams.
Walter Dale vs. Jack Delaney.
Frank Vogel vs. Myron [Biff] Bennett.
Adam Smith vs. Tim Brawner.

Miller, former amateur wrestling champion, is one of the cleanest wrestlers in the light heavyweight group controled by Fred Kohler and Adam Weismuller. Williams is just the opposite, making it an ideal match for those who go in for such tableaus. Preliminary bouts:

Bobby Pierce and Al Woznica.
Joe Bauer and Buck O'Neil.
Ernie Peterson and George Jonasen.
Al Szasz and Ed Van Herrick.

Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, Ind., light heavyweight, has been substituted for Chuck Hefner in a ten round contest against Mickey Balaban at Western stadium tomorrow. Armand Sicilia, Springfield, Ill., and Jimmy Eliopoulos, Chicago, will be opponents in the six round semi-final. Four round scraps will bring together Hugh Allen and Davey White, Lloyd Weaver and George McConnell, and Al Pahl and Fred Chynoweth.

Harry Forbes, who won recognition as bantamweight champion after Terry McGovern's retirement in 1901, is busy arranging supporting matches to the six round windup between Puggy Weinert and George Engel in his opening show at Northwest stadium Wednesday. Bouts he arranged over the week-end match Ernie Kulasik and Jack Murphy at 147 pounds, George Van der Hayden and Davey White at 135, each at six rounds, and Ray Raymond and Elnar Hedquist at 155 pounds at four rounds. Others who will appear on the program include John Brown.

Nestor Bruggman and Gene Higgins, welterweight members of the Catholic Youth organization professional department, will feature a show tonight at Sioux City, Ia. Bruggman is paired against Johnny Stanton of Minneapolis, Minn., for eight rounds, and Higgins will box J. Burke for six rounds.—F. M.

C. Y. O. Boxers to Drill Today in Lockport Camp

The Catholic Youth organization's boxing squad starts to work in earnest today to prepare for the bouts with New York which are scheduled for Wrigley field a week from Wednesday evening. Sixty skillful and high spirited young boxers went to Lockport yesterday to establish a training camp and this morning they will begin a rigorous course of training under Packy McFarland, Paddy Kane, and Dick Fitzgerald. From this squad the trainers well select a team of 16—two boys in each weight division—for the intercity bouts.

The fighters will be a busy crowd today, but there will be just as much activity out on the west side, where Richard M. Lenihan of the Garfield Park Business Men's association is in charge of preparations for welcoming the New York boxers, who are due to arrive Wednesday morning.

The visitors will receive Chicago's official greeting Wednesday evening in a festival which will consist of a parade and a huge outdoor reception in Garfield park.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

OMAHA CHAMPION.

FOR the fourth time in seven runnings Arlington's Classic determined the 3 year old champion for the year. In one other season, Mate, which won, and Twenty Grand, which ran third, were rival claimants in the fall.

Omaha's title pretensions are unassailable on what he has accomplished to date. Nothing to follow could affect that prestige. Even if Omaha trained off, which he is not likely to do, met unexpected misfortune or defeat, he still has the luster of victories in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont, Dwyer, and Classic to his credit.

It may be recalled that a month after his Classic victory Gallant Fox, sire of Omaha, to which Omaha so frequently is compared, met the only setback of his 3 year old career. He was beaten badly by Jim Dandy, a 100 to 1 shot, after the Fox and Whichone had killed each other off out in front on a muddy track. From his race Saturday Omaha is not likely to do that.

Before the Classic some skeptics thought a fast pace such as St. Bernard set, followed by Black Helen, might leave Omaha so far behind that his well known stretch finish could not make up the ground. Some of that doubt was dispelled when the Woodward colt last week stepped a workout mile in 1:36 1-5. The Classic was run just that way and Omaha retained his final bid while the others were dizzy from the early pace.

Black Helen was effectually removed as a rival to Omaha's supremacy. She still remains outstanding among her own sex. While her stablemate, Bloodroot, finished third and Black Helen fourth there was 8 pounds difference in weight, which theoretically more than offsets the length's difference between them at the finish. Black Helen is too petite, too effeminate, to pack such weight over the Classic distance against stronger, sturdier colts.

* *

Son and Sire.

Omaha now has completed the most important part of his campaign. How does his record compare with Gallant Fox? At a similar stage Gallant Fox was unbeaten, although he lost afterward. He had to his credit the five big features which Omaha has won and also the Wood Memorial. He afterward lost the Travers, but won the Saratoga cup, Lawrence Realization, and Jockey Club cup. His season was nine victories and one defeat.

Omaha already has started nine times this year. Three defeats are registered. He was third to Today and Plat Eye in the Wood Memorial, and later gave Today a severe trouncing in the Kentucky Derby. He was second to Rosemont in the Withers mile, too short a distance for him, and reversed the result in the Belmont. He was beaten by the great Discovery and King Saxon in the Brooklyn handicap at 1¼ miles. They were older horses.

Despite these three defeats Omaha, however, answered the question of class and stamina affirmatively in all his principal engagements and did so convincingly. In two of those defeats he probably should not have been started. His daddy didn't try them. In the Wood Memorial he evidently was not quite ready.

Omaha's campaign now calls for bagging the remaining turf fixtures on the season's schedule which Gallant Fox won.

* *

* *

Earnings Comparison.

Gallant Fox, as a 3 year old, earned $308,285, the highest amount ever recorded for one season. After the Classic his mark was $249,090. Omaha, winning the same principal stakes, has $142,255. That's the difference between the heyday of 1930 and the present in stake values. Gallant Fox's Classic was worth $64,750, that of Omaha $28,975.

Discovery Vs. Omaha Offers Weight Riddle

BY FRENCH LANE.

It isn't likely that Charley McLennan, the Arlington Park Jocky club's young racing secretary, had much fun on his day off yesterday. Neither is it likely that he did very much sleeping last night.

The thing that disturbed him was what weights he must assign today for the seventh running of the $10,000 added Arlington handicap on next Saturday afternoon.

Racing secretaries soon become calloused to the growls of one or two trainers who are chronic objectors to everything a racing secretary does. But if McLennan's weights are not just right for the Arlington handicap growls and grunts are going to be hurled this time from every direction.

Problem's a Tough One.

There are two complications—one that big horse Discovery and the other that newest big horse Omaha.

What sort of a weight package shall McLennan pile on Discovery's back in order to make a horse race out of it and what size package shall he dangle before the eyes of the Omaha board of strategy in order to attract that 3 year old champion in the race?

An Arlington handicap with either Discovery or Omaha in the field will make it highly necessary to oil up the turnstiles again at the Arlington Park track. That no doubt would please Mr. McLennan's bosses, but they hardly want to stage a horse race such as the Bunker Hill affair at Suffolk Downs on last Saturday, which Discovery under 131 pounds won by 15 lengths after being all but left at the post.

Young Alfred Vanderbilt is too good a sportsman to want that much the best of it again in the Arlington handicap. Neither does he want the worst of it. So, how high can McLennan go with Discovery's weight and still coax the big flyer from the east into the contest and yet at the same time not scare every other prospective starter out of the race?

Many 3 Year Olds Eligible.

Omaha's position in regard to the race is somewhat different. Trainer Fitzsimmons must wait for word from Omaha's owner, William Woodward, who is in Europe, as to whether or not he wants to send the 3 year old against older horses. The cablegram probably will be received today. If Woodward says to start Omaha in the handicap it isn't likely that the weight assignment the colt gets will have a bearing on his going to the post.

Women Start District Golf TourneyToday

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The annual tournament of the Chicago Women's District Golf association will open this morning with an eighteen hole qualifying round at the Oak Park Country club. Rena Nelson of Exmoor, who won the championship at Flossmoor last year, will defend her title against one of the best fields ever assembled for the tournament.

The field for the match play bracket, which will open tomorrow, will be either sixteen or thirty-two, according to Mrs. George C. Davis of Oak Park, president of the association. If thirty-two are qualified, the final match will not be played until Saturday morning. Otherwise the championship will be decided on Friday.

Miss Nelson issued a warning recently that she will be hard to beat by tieing the course record of 81 at Barrington. Others in the field include Hilda Livengood of Flossmoor, present state women's champion, who set a new course mark of 78 at Midlothian the other day; Ellamae Williams of River Forest, runner-up in both the Illinois state and western junior; Mrs. Melvin Jones of Flossmoor, Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam o' Shanter, Shirley Ann Johnson and Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, Mrs. June Beebe Atwood of Olympia Fields, Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Onwentsia, and Mrs. Lawrence H. Selz of Northmoor.

The annual team tournament of the Chicago District Golf association, open to four members of each club, will be decided tomorrow over the thirty-six hole route at the Medinah Country club. Bob o' Link, winner last year, will defend the title. A majority of the leading players of the district have entered the event.

Th six members of the touring team of Japanese professionals will meet a team of Chicago amateurs tomorrow at Skokie. In their last appearance here, at Westward-Ho in May, the Japanese lost to six star members of the Illinois P. G. A.

On Wednesday, members of the Bob o' Link Golf club in Highland Park will decide what is for them one of the most momentous issues of the season—the location of the locker room championship banner for the remainder of the year. Players will be arranged in foursomes, with two from the south side of the locker room meeting two from the north. The event has always been one of the most popular of the year at the north side club. The winning side will be determined by the average net scores of all players.

Girls' Softball Teams Play 3 Games Tonight

A triple-header will be staged tonight at Mills stadium by the Chicago Major Girls' Softball league. In the first game at 7 o'clock the Commercial Tire Supply Co-eds will oppose the Dennis A. Horan Boosters. Contests between the Narragan-Nor-Claire Drug Co-eds and Dennis Horans and the Hart Motors and Commercials will follow.

MURPHY MEETS HARMON TODAY IN NET FINAL

Chet Murphy, Tilden Tech athlete, reached the final round of the Illinois state tennis tournament when he defeated a teammate, Joe Zukas, in the semi-finals yesterday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club. In a five set match that lasted for more than five hours, Murphy triumphed 6-0, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Murphy will meet Bobby Harmon of California for the championship today.

Earlier in the day, Art Kaiser, showing some of the finest tennis of his lengthy career, won his third straight veterans' championship by defeating a St. Louis player, Ed Serrano, 6-0, 6-1.

In the women's championship final, Elizabeth Kesting defeated Eugenie Sampson Kamrath, 6-0, 8-6. Miss Kesting's sharply angled and tricky shots gave her an easy victory in the opening set, then enabled her to pull out the second when she was behind at 1-5.

The Greenbergs, Jacob and Seymour, retained the father-son title by defeating Herbert Mertz and Herbert Jr., 6-1, 6-4.

Robert Harmon and Karl Kamrath won the men's doubles championship by defeating Thane Halstead and Frank O'Connell, the defending champions, 0-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Postoffice Golfers Hold Tourney Today

The Chicago Postoffice Golf association tournament will be held today at White Pines, Bensenville, Ill. The first players will tee off at 9 o'clock. Prizes are offered for low gross winners in four classes arranged by handicaps.

Canzoneri at 133 Pounds in Pacho Battle

Tony Canzoneri will continue boxing drills this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium for his ten round junior welterweight bout with Bobby Pacho at Mills stadium Thursday. Canzoneri, who regained the lightweight championship when he beat Lou Ambers last March, weighed 133 pounds after a workout yesterday, the poundage at which he expects to fight Pacho. The agreed weight is 133 pounds.

Despite his low poundage Canzoneri has ambitions to fight Jimmy McLarnin in New York before the outdoor season ends for the right to meet Champion Barney Ross with the welterweight crown at stake. Pop Foster, manager of McLarnin, is purported to have closed with Madison Square Garden for such a match. Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker of the Garden, had hoped to be able to present the encounter late this month or in August, but McLarnin's recent marriage precluded the possibility for he is in Honolulu on his honeymoon.

Cards Three Bouts.

In order to keep Canzoneri in the limelight pending disposition of the tentative scrap with McLarnin, Manager Sam Goldman arranged the encounter against Pacho, and others against Frank Klick at San Francisco Aug. 19 and Joe Ghnouly at St. Louis Sept. 3. The Canzoneri-Ghnouly bout is being sponsored by the Twentieth Century Sporting club. Joe Louis and Johnny Risko may appear on the same card.

All three of these matches will be non-title affairs, but a loss to either Pacho, Klick or Ghnouly will cost Tony his bout with McLarnin.

Of the three forthcoming opponents, however, Pacho appears strongest and he is the heaviest. Ghnouly and Klick are lightweights. Bobby seldom weighs less than 140.

LEVINSKY BOXES

King Levinsky engaged in his first Sunday workout yesterday at his training camp near Round Lake, Ill., where he is preparing for his ten round bout with Joe Louis at Comiskey park Aug. 7. Some 150 spectators, 71 of whom paid 40 cents each, watched the drill. Levinsky sparred three rounds, two with Jack Redmond, South Bend, Ind., colored boxer, and one with Jim Roschal, Tulsa, Okla., both of whom are heavyweights.

Redmond Goes Down.

Promoter Joe Foley and Matchmaker Mickey Farr were among the witnesses. So were Sam Plan, manager of Barney Ross, welterweight champion, and his lightweight title aspirant, Davey Day. All four were impressed by Levinsky's performance and by his superb physical condition.

Levinsky and his entourage reside at a private home situated within a stone's throw of the lake. The camp, called the Haunted house, is owned by Peg Behning. Admission tickets are sold by Levinsky's handlers and the money is used to pay off incidental expenses, such as sparmates.

Levinsky plans to continue to train at Round Lake every day until the day of the contest. He then will be escorted to the Illinois boxing commission for the weighing in.

AGUA CALIENTE TRACK CLOSED BY GAMBLING EDICT

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., July 21.—(AP)—All gambling places, including the horse track which has offered some of the richest purses in racing, were closed here today by presidential edict, and picturesque Tia Juana and pretentious Agua Caliente observed their first quiet Sunday in years.

Richards Wins 2 Races on Midget Speedway Card

Ray Richards of Highland Park last night took two firsts and two second places at the Chicago Midget speedway. Richards scored his victories in the 20 lap feature, in which he set a new track record of 6:45.8, and the 15 lap semi-final.

PERFECT SKEET SCORE.

Sox Defeat Senators and Newsom, 4-2

bag, spun around and stabbed it with one hand. He stepped on the base to double Bonura. Then Appling walked and Dykes popped to Strange.

Lyons surrendered only two hits during the first three innings, but in their half of the fourth the Senators put together three singles for a run that gave them the lead for a few minutes. Myer trapped a single into center and Manush filed to Simmons. Travis singled to left. Powell did the same, and Myers scored. Then Dykes took a pop up off Holbrook's bat and also threw out Strange.

Piet Bumps One.

Sewell singled to left to start the fifth and it didn't take long to get three runs home. Sewell went to second on Lyon's bunt. Radcliff was tossed out by Travis. The next was Piet's drive, which sailed over Stone's head into the right center field corner for a home run. Haas followed with a single to right, Bonura walked and a balk gave them an extra base. Simmons beat out a slow roller toward first and Haas scored. Appling then lined to Kuhel for the third out.

Piet and Bonura took care of the scoring of one run in the seventh, giving the Sox an edge of 4 to 1. Piet led off with a single to center and Haas sacrificed. Bonura also singled to center. Piet scoring. The rain came down at this point and the umpires decided to suspend the performance, the tarpaulin manipulators meanwhile doing their exercises. The spreading of the canvas and the removal of same consumed about 20 minutes after which the show continued with a pass to Simmons. Appling and Dykes followed with fly balls to the outfield.

Fan Gets the Gate.

Unscheduled excitement turned up in the home seventh when the Senators picked up their second run. Lyons walked Holbrook and Strange singled to center. Miles batted

CARDINALS TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER FROM DODGERS

Win First Game, 13 to 7; Capture 2d, 7 to 5.

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today cut the National league lead of the New York Giants to one and a half games by taking a double header from the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Cardinals breezed through the opener, 13 to 7, and came from behind to win the second games, 7 to 5. Played under threatening skies, the games drew 25,000, largest home crowd of the season. RESUME SENDING U. S. OFFICERS TO SCHOOLS ABROAD

First Army Man Will Study at Berlin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Resumption of the practice of sending American army officers to study at German military schools was announced today by the war department. In its order, the department revives a relationship abandoned before the war.

Capt. Harlan N. Harkness will be the first officer to go to Germany. He was ordered relieved of his command with the 17th infantry at Fort Leavenworth and detailed to the German general staf school at Berlin to take the course of instruction beginning Oct. 1.

Call Assignment Coincidence.

The assignment of Capt. Harkness was made possible under the increased appropriation for the army. The practice of sending officers abroad for study in countries other than Germany was stopped in 1931 because of the drastic cut in the army budget. This, also, is to be resumed.

It was considered significant that the war department elected to send the first officer selected for foreign study to Germany, in view of that country's recent decision to enlarge its army in defiance of the Versailles treaty. The army high command, however, insisted that the assignment and Germany's rearming is a mere coincidence.

Sent to Four Countries.

In study abroad, American officers are under instruction to apply themselves diligently to general foreign strategy and tactics, with a view toward recommending principles applicable in this country for the American general staf. In return, foreign officers come to this country for the same purpose.

In the past American officers have been sent to France, Italy, and England. In pre-war days they went to the German cavalry school at Hamburg and the general staf school in Berlin.

Foreign officers study in this country at the command and general staf school at Fort Leavenworth, the artillery school at Fort Sill, the cavalry school at Fort Riley, the infantry school at Fort Benning, the coast artillery school at Fort Monroe and the aviation school at Randolph Field.

News of the Radio Stations

WILLIAM LEES, IN BUSINESS HERE 45 YEARS, DIES

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio is twice as funny this year as it was last—by its own admission. Statistics released for the first half of the year by NBC reveal that an even 4 per cent of all program time was devoted to comedy. Last year the figure was 2.3 per cent. The 4 per cent item is not called comedy in NBC's statistical chart. It is labeled "novelty," a bracket which includes such items as Jack Benny, turtle races, Fred Allen, frog derbies, Joe Penner, hog calling, Beatrice Lillie, and so on. Eddie Cantor was included last year, but this year he went over to the rival network. Except for this defection NBC's laugh output might possibly have been trebled this year!

As always, the major item in NBC fare was music, 63 per cent thus far for 1935. This is 5 per cent off from last season. Extra humor accounted in part for this loss, but there were slight gains in lectures, drama, and comment on current affairs. Proportion of classics to dance music was not revealed, but you probably have your guess. Next to radio music was "literature," a term which on closer inspection seems to embrace all forms of radio drama. These accounted for 13.5 per cent and lectures were third with 7.6.

When Ben Bernie arrives from the west coast tomorrow to do his weekly sponsored show from local studios Frank Prince will not be with the troupe. The singer remained in Hollywood to accept a movie offer. Four years ago Prince was a Chicago bond salesman, just a couple of years out of the University of Wisconsin. He walked in on Bernie one day, sang a song or two and was promptly hired and has been with him ever since. He had a featured spot or two in the last Bernie picture. And now he goes to join that ever lengthening line of radio names that are trying their luck in Hollywood.

Bing Crosby was one of the first to make good there. In the last year or two they have been going in droves: Jack Benny, Frank Parker, Phil Baker, Joe Penner, Lanny Ross, Ruth Etting, Nino Martini, Schumann-Heink, Rudy Vallee, Amos 'n' Andy, Kate Smith, Gladys Swarthout, Lily Pons, Jessica Dragonette, Dorothy Page, Ted Flo-Rito, Burns and Allen, Olga Albani, Fred Allen, James Melton, Everett Marshall, Warren Hull, Tito Guizar, Phil Harris, and many others.

Ireene Wicker has invited the young followers of her Singing Lady broadcasts on W-G-N and NBC to make suggestions for story material which she might gather during her forthcoming vacation in England. Greatest number of requests have come in for a story about changing of the guard at Buckingham palace and the Tower of London.

Doris Wester, a young amateur songstress, who made her first radio appearance on Maj. Bowes' hour two weeks ago, made such an impression on Ray Noble, the English maestro, that he gave her a job with his orchestra singing at the Rainbow room, night club atop Radio City.

The City Voices program, regularly heard over NBC from New York, will be aired from the Chicago Union Stock Yards this morning at 7:30 over WMAQ. Charlie Lyon, aboard a mobile transmitter, and Jim Poole, live stock expert, will describe the babel of activity.

Wife Believes Husband's Suicide Try Hoax; He Dies

Oakland, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—Harris Walker, 36, whose wife told police she believed "he was just trying to fool me again," died at a hospital here today of poison. Officers said Walker took the poison three hours before his death, but that his wife summoned aid only after it became apparent he was in a critical condition. "He had threatened suicide frequently," she explained.

SPRING WHEAT CROP ENTERING CRUCIAL PERIOD

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

This week is a crucial period for the spring wheat crop. The excellent prospects of a few weeks ago have been seriously marred by the widespread development of rust over a wide area in the spring wheat states of the northwest. Alarming reports of the potential damage are coming out of the territory but the real story will be told this week and next in the weather reports.

If hot, muggy weather of the sort that brings rapid development of the crop blight is visited upon the northwest, inestimable damage will result. Cooler weather would check the ravages of the disease and give the farmers of the region a chance to harvest the best crop since 1932.

Bumper Crop Forecast Earlier.

When the government made its July 1 round-up of crop conditions it appeared that the long suffering spring wheat belt was in for a bumper year. That possibility has not been entirely lost. However, whereas two weeks ago a crop of about 270 million bushels was expected, now a return of 200 millions or more would be regarded as favorable.

Some grain men believe there is little likelihood of production falling below the 200 million mark. They cite 1916, the last bad rust year, to support their claim. In that year the per acre yield of spring wheat fell below nine bushels. This year, they declare, even discounting further damage, yields will probably not fall below ten bushels to the acre. With a spring wheat acreage of over 20,000,000 this would indicate a crop in excess of 200 million bushels.

There is one distinctive feature in the market action during the present crop scare period. While prices have been responsive to the potentialities of the situation there has been no spectacular advance. The market has fluctuated nervously but despite all the excitement and apprehension of the last week the upturn in prices amounted to only 5½ cents a bushel.

U. S. Will Meet Own Needs.

If the worst is realized out of the present damage possibilities in the northwest the United States will be eliminated as a potential exporter during the coming year. All domestic requirements, however, will be met unless the results are much worse than now appear likely.

PHILIP M'INTYRE GIVEN CHICAGO SHIPPING POST

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The appointment of Philip E. McIntyre as western trafic manager of the Roosevelt-International Mercantile Marine company, with headquarters in Chicago, was announced by Basil Harris, vice president of the company. Mr. McIntyre succeeds J. D. Roth, who will retire Sept. 1 after forty-six years in the company's employ.

Mr. McIntyre has been freight trafic manager of the Baltimore Mail line, a subsidiary of the I. M. M., with offices in Baltimore. He is a native of Baltimore and started his career in trafic with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He has also been with the Pennsylvania railroad, Munson and Black Diamond Steamship companies and the Consolidated Navigation company.

Mr. Roth has been in charge of the Chicago freight territory since 1905, and for three years handled passenger as well as freight activities.

A. M. Castle & Co. Buys Plant in California

A. M. Castle & Co., has purchased the former property of the Liberty Iron works in Oakland, Cal., involving an investment of over $75,000. The plant has 30,000 square feet of floor space. A complete stock of varied steel mill products will be carried at the new plant, which will be opened for business in the second week of August.

Flails Cities' Plan to Invoke Bankrupt Act

A proposed amendment to the federal bankruptcy laws, under which any municipality or subdivision of a state could effect a readjustment of its indebtedness without the consent of a single creditor, was assailed last night by D. T. Richardson of Kelley, Richardson & Co., Inc., Chicago, chairman of the municipal securities committee of the Investment Bankers Association of America.

"It is apparent," said Richardson, "that if such an amendment were enacted into law, the creditors of a municipality in financial difficulties would be deprived of all rights which normally exist and which they now have. It would give a debtor municipality a distinctly unfair advantage over investors, who, in good faith, purchased its bonds."

Proposed by Wilcox.

The amendment was proposed by Representative James M. Wilcox [Dem., Fla.], and was referred to the judiciary committee of the house.

Under the proposal, all that would be necessary to deny creditors a voice in readjustment of a city's debt would be authorization of a loan to that city by an agency of the federal government for the purpose of compromising and refinancing outstanding obligations. In the case of drainage, irrigation, reclamation, and levee districts no consent of a creditor would be required even for the filing of initial proceedings.

"Under the amendment," said Richardson, "bondholders would in effect be obliged to take for their bonds whatever an agency of the federal government might, at the moment, arbitrarily consider them to be worth, and the government would be a directly interested party because the new bonds it would accept from a political subdivision would, from its standpoint, be better secured if the debt were scaled down to the lowest possible figure.

Has No Competition.

"Furthermore, the government has no competition in making such loans, and the result may be a drastically reduced loan at the unwaranted expense of investors.

"The amendment would constitute an arbitrary abrogation of the rights of bondholders and other creditors and should not be permitted by congress." He added that its constitutionality appears doubtful.

The present act requires written acceptance of holders of 51 per cent in amount of indebtedness before a petition may be filed and a plan submitted. Richardson points out that the proposed amendment would require acceptance by only 51 per cent in number and that bondholders' committees and similar groups, each to be considered as one holder, even if they represent 90 per cent of the debt.

No Acceptance Required.

No written acceptance whatsoever is required in the case of drainage, irrigation, reclamation, and levee districts if a federal agency has authorized a loan for refinancing purposes, Richardson added.

"The effect of the present important protection [approval by 66 2-3 and 75 per cent of debt before a plan can be confirmed by the court] would be completely nullified," said Richardson, "by the proposed amendment which provides that no acceptance of the plan by any creditors is necessary if a loan has been authorized to any type of petitioning political subdivision by an agency of the government for the purpose of reducing and refinancing its outstanding debt."

JUNE BUSINESS VOLUME SHOWS GAIN OVER 1934

June business volume registered a slight improvement over the preceding month and remained considerably above levels of the corresponding period last year, according to the national industrial conference board. In the production field greater than seasonal rises were reported by the construction, petroleum, coal, electric power and machine tool industries. Distribution, as represented by miscellaneous freight trafic and retail sales, showed considerable improvement over May, the board said.

Industrial activity during the first six months of the year was markedly greater than in the corresponding period last year, the survey asserts. Of the more important indices of production and distribution, only two car loadings and steel output, were under the first half of 1934.

Both wholesale and retail prices advanced during the first six months, the former rising 3.5 per cent and the latter 3.4 per cent.

Bondholders' Group Urges Milwaukee Plan Go Slow

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The independent committee for the protection of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad bondholders has sent a letter to the interstate commerce commission asking that there be no hurried reorganization of the road in order that there may be a thorough and independent inquiry into the history of this company. The committee also is opposed to the appointment of Henry A. Scandrett, president, as trustee because of his connection with the road's bankers.

MARSHALL FIELD SALES IMPROVE OVER YEAR AGO

Gain of 4% Made in Second Quarter.

Business of Marshall Field & Co. showed an expansion of slightly more than 4 per cent in the second quarter of 1935 as compared with the corresponding period of last year, according to the quarterly report sent to stockholders yesterday by John McKinlay, president.

While the company continued to operate at a loss in the June quarter, the net deficit was less than half of that in the comparable 1934 quarter. For the first six months of the year an improvement in net results of more than a million dollars was shown. Each major division of the company's business, including manufacturing and wholesaling, retailing, and real estate operations, gave a better showing in the six months period.

Report Buying Less Hesitant.

"The hesitancy in sales so apparent at the close of the first quarter has abated," President McKinlay said. "While the net sales improvement in the second quarter is not startling, it has been sound. Probably much apparel business was lost because of the very wet spring and early summer, but gains in other departments have more than made up for these losses.

"In June, 1934, considerable business came to our principal retail store in Chicago from visitors to A Century of Progress. Notwithstanding the absence of that stimulant this year the month's business showed a good increase over June last year."

	1934.	1933.	Percentage change.
Fourth quarter	31,849,500	27,717,900	+14.9
	1933.	1934.
Second quarter	24,184,100	23,221,500	+ 4.1

Results for Quarters Shown.

	1934.	1933.
Third quarter	†$ 175,000	*$ 955,000
Fourth quarter	*1,915,700	*1,518,000

First quarter	†$ 422,700	†$ 762,000
Second quarter	†400,700	†1,145,000

*Profit. †Loss.

Commenting on the death of the NRA, President McKinlay said the company's business had not been adversely affected so far by the elimination of codes.

"As to our operations," he said, "we think it unwise to reduce the weekly income of any of our employés below the minimum which had been established by the codes."

The general acceptance by consumers of the increased sales tax, which went into effect July 1, indicates the company will suffer no loss of business from the change, stockholders were told.

President McKinlay described the company's new selling experiment, the Merchandise Express, as a "signal success." The train is now touring the south and southeastern states.

BORAH EXPECTS INFLATION BILLS OF 5 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(AP)—A promise that 5 billion dollars of inflationary legislation would be laid in front of the administration program in the senate came today from Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho] with a prediction that congress would be here until Nov. 1.

The veteran Idaho independent said friends of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill and the vetoed Patman bonus measure "have concluded" to tack these on to one of the administration's "must" bills, probably the tax measure, in the senate.

The Frazier-Lemke bill calls for the issuance of 3 billion dollars of treasury notes for refinancing farm mortgages to be repaid at the rate of 1½ per cent a year each, on principal and interest.

The Patman bonus measure would adapt the same principle to payment of the adjusted service certificates, requiring the issuance of some 2 billion 200 million dollars of new money, to be retired gradually by the treasury. President Roosevelt's veto of this bill was sustained by the senate after being overridden by the house.

There was no immediate comment from Democratic leaders on the Borah proposal, but it was generally agreed that if the Frazier-Lemke and bonus rows were injected into the already troublesome wealth tax program congress would be in session for a long time.

"I expect to see congress still in session on Nov. 1," Borah said.

Urges Nation to Open Free Gold Market

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Norman C. Norman, who brought the suit in which the United States Supreme court ruled on the constitutionality of the abrogation of gold clauses in bonds, called today for establishment of a free gold market in this country.

He estimated, in a statement, that 1 billion dollars was remaining in hoarding or outside the country because of the lack of such a market.

Norman pointed out that the removal last August of restrictions on foreign exchange dealings "permitted individuals and organizations who desired to hold gold against the possibilities of inflation to purchase all the gold they desired in the London free gold market."

Buy Gold Abroad.

"The bullion brokers in New York with London connections," the statement continued, "have within the last year been doing a thriving business for wealthy individuals in purchasing gold for them in London and either holding it for their account or selling it for them on order.

"It is also estimated that there are several hundred millions of dollars in gold coin still hoarded throughout the country and because of congressional acts making it a statutory crime to hold money in the form of coin this money is in fact 'frozen' and will never come out until these laws are repealed."

Norman quoted Secretary Morgenthau as telling a congressional committee last week that the emergency was over and said this was "no doubt correct."

Takes Issue with Cummings.

He said establishment of a gold market would not involve the government, and took issue with Attorney General Cummings' statement that it was necessary to enact the bill outlawing gold clause suits before establishing the market.

"Sensible people," Norman said, "recognize that one has nothing to do with the other and the good attorney general is no doubt misinformed when he makes that unusual statement.

"Congress, while in session, should give serious consideration to the establishment of a free gold market in the United States and the repealing of all laws making it a crime to hold or acquire gold coin or bullion."

Associated Telephone Reorganization Advanced

Assets of the Associated Telephone Utilities company have been transferred to General Telephone corporation, a new company, and its new subsidiary, General Telephone Allied corporation, according to the plan of reorganization of Associated Telephone Utilities company approved by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe of New York. William J. Wardall, who has been the trustee in the reorganization of the old company, will act as president of General Telephone corporation until a decision is made on the permanent management by the stockholders at their first meeting, scheduled for early autumn.

'DOLLAR DAY' SALES PROVE BIG STIMULUS TO CHICAGO'S TRADE

Strong response to dollar day sales gave Chicago retail trade a big stimulus which was reflected in an unusually good record for the week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In the wholesale market there was jubilation over the record attendance at the furniture shows and heavy advance buying by early arrivals for the Interstate Merchants council semi-annual meeting. Most of the incoming merchants indicate that consumers are in a better buying mood, with better crops and heavier pocketbooks leading to higher purchases. Commitments for fall and Christmas trade are assuming sizable proportions, the trade organization declares.

Industrially there was little change. The anticipated improvement in factory output is not expected until mid-September. In the meantime employment is holding steady. Public utilities also maintained an even keel in volume of business.

A marked spread of interest among buyers of homes is reflected both in the city and suburbs in a stiffening of rents and property values. In many suburbs building operations are the best since 1931.

OVER 5 BILLION U. S. SECURITIES MATURE IN YEAR

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public which will mature within twelve months amount to $5,448,232,080. They consist of treasury bonds, notes, and non-interest bearing discount bills.

The Fourth Liberty 4¼s, outstanding, which have been reduced to about $1,278,000,000 through successive redemptions, are now called for payment on Oct. 15.

The two issues of Panama Canal 2s, aggregating $74,901,580, have been called for redemption on Aug. 15.

Crown Zellerbach Reports Decline in Earnings

Consolidated net profit of the Crown Zellerbach corporation and subsidiaries, other than Crown Willamette Paper company and its subsidiaries, for the year ended April 30 amounted to $1,407,513. This is equivalent to $5.62 a share on the preference stock and compared with a net profit of $1,633,240, or $6.51 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. Consolidated current assets on April 30 totaled $8,894,050, approximately 3.3 times the current liabilities of $2,690,118. Working capital amounted to $6,203,931, compared with $6,127,975 on April 30, 1934. Long term indebtedness was reduced by $1,078,749 during the year.

Westinghouse Income Twice 1934 Quarter

Net income of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in the second quarter of 1935 amounted to $3,938,692, more than twice last year's total of $1,744,427 for the same period, the company announced yesterday. This brought profits for the first six months to $6,265,188, against a deficit of $31,725 in 1934.

Orders received in the June quarter aggregated $34,222,014, compared with $33,655,022 last year, while sales billed amounted to $36,083,215, compared with $27,287,545. Six months' orders totaled $64,934,915, against $53,892,610 in the corresponding period in 1934, and sales billed were $62,296,017, against $45,281,590.

Best Second Quarter Since 1931.

Orders received in the half year were 21 per cent above 1934, while volume for the second quarter was the best for that period since 1931. Sales billed showed a gain of 28 per cent this year over last year.

Profit for the six months includes $926,753 in back dividends on and sale of Radio Corporation of America stock.

The statement calls attention to the fact that state and federal legislation, enacted or pending, such as the federal social security act and federal revenue measure, will adversely affect earnings of the company, directly and indirectly, through increased taxation. It takes issue with proposals of the federal government to impose greater taxes on big business.

Warns Stockholders on Taxes.

"This company is owned by 48,734 stockholders of which 41,399 own less than 100 shares each," the report says. "With such a wide distribution of stock among so many buyers it may readily be seen that imposing the tax on a graduated basis does not necessarily accomplish the purpose of taxing 'bigness' but will curtail the payment of dividends and severely penalize small as well as large stockholders.

"The management of this company believes it has a duty to all of its stockholders to call attention to the constant increase in the tax burden and especially this discriminating, unsound proposal of a graduated income tax for corporations."

Union Carbide Earnings Rise in Second Quarter

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation had a net income of $5,332,528 for the quarter ended June 30, equal to 59.25 cents a share on the 9,000,743 shares of stock outstanding. This compares with net earnings of $4,779,505 or 53.10 cents a share in the corresponding quarter of last year. In the first quarter of 1935 the company earned 58.81 cents a share.

STEEL OUTPUT SOARS; SUMMER SLUMP LACKING

Plants Now Average 43% of Capacity.

Steel operations are not only ignoring the customary midsummer slump but are going higher by leaps and bounds, gaining 5 more points last week to 43 per cent of production capacity, according to the weekly review of the magazine Steel. Another feature of the week was an inquiry by Ford Motor company for 90,000 to 140,000 tons of steel, the largest call for automobile material in several years.

With last week's gain the operating rate has risen a total of 12 points since the first week of July and places the rate above the average for June, which was 40.3 per cent, and approaches 44 per cent average for May.

Finished steel production has also moved up, the journal says, with full finished sheet 11 points higher at 45 per cent, common black up 26 points at 55 per cent and galvanized 38 points at 60 per cent. Strip steel mills showed gains of several points for hot and cold rolled to 31 to 34 per cent, respectively. Tin plate advanced 15 points to 80 per cent of capacity.

Most Districts Show Gains.

District operations included a rise of 6½ points to 49 per cent at Chicago, 4 points to 38 per cent in Pittsburgh, 11 points to 73 per cent in Wheeling, 11 points to 37 per cent at Buffalo, 1½ points to 31½ per cent at Birmingham, 2½ points to 29 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania, and 3 points to 46 per cent at Youngstown. Cleveland was off 3 points at 41 per cent and New England was 5 points lower at 36 per cent, while Detroit was unchanged at 94 per cent.

Buying is well diversified as stocks are low, the review says. Actual requirements in some consumer industries are holding up, in others tending to improve. Consumption of farm fencing and implements is the heaviest in several years.

Railroad Purchases Heavier.

Railroad purchases were heavier during the week, the journal reports, with a considerable portion of the 50,000 tons of steel for 5,125 Chesapeake and Ohio freight cars being allocated. The Milwaukee purchased several thousand tons of rails, with subsequent orders to bring the total to 11,000 tons. The Illinois Central bought 7,600 tons and the Nickel Plate 3,000 tons. The Union Pacific awarded 4,200 tons of tie plates.

RAPS PRESIDENT AS USURPER OF FEDERAL POWER

Form of Government in Peril, Says Magill.

The United States' form of government is imperiled by the usurpation of legislative authority by the executive department and by the threatened limitation of powers of the judicial department, Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc., warns in the organization's current issue of Investor America.

If these ambitious plans are carried out, he asserts, the safeguards of civil and religious liberty, which have been the priceless heritage of American people since the republic was founded, will be lost.

"An executive able to dominate congress could then secure the enactment of whatever laws he wished," Dr. Magill writes. "Without the protection of the judicial department to declare null and void laws enacted at his dictation in violation of the constitution, the executive would become a dictator, not unlike what we behold today in Italy, Germany and Russia.

Flails Executive Dictation.

"Loyal Americans, both Democrat and Republican, have been deeply concerned because of this usurpation of power by the present chief executive. He has repeatedly dictated extreme laws which have been enacted by a subservient congress. Some of these acts have been undertaken to give him legislative authority. American citizens have been arrested and put in jail for refusing or neglecting to obey orders or codes imposed by the executive.

"Finally the Supreme court declared unconstitutional such usurpation of power. Checked by the court's decision, the executive has threatened action limiting the powers of the judicial department of our government."

Dr. Magill then described the fight made by his organization and others against the utility holding company bill containing the "death sentence," which provided for complete destruction of certain holding companies.

Calls Congress Subservient.

"Under ordinary circumstances," he continues, "members of congress would have given serious consideration to pleas of their investor constituents but they were confronted by the executive who, with almost unlimited powers and with billions of dollars at his disposal, persistently demanded that congress subserviently bow to his will and pass, not a regulatory measure but a destructive 'death sentence' act."

Wagner Electric.

Investors' Guide: I wish you would please give me information on Wagner Electric. Please find stamped envelope for reply.—P. P. H.

Answer: Wagner Electric corporation, St. Louis, manufactures electric motors, transformers and Lockheed automobile hydraulic brakes. The company has operated profitably in each of the last twelve years, with the exception of 1932 and 1933. Earnings for April, 1935, were unofficially estimated at between $40,000 and $45,000, or more than half of the estimated profit of $65,000 for January, February and March of this year.

Net income in 1934 was $314,000, or 60 cents a share. The company lost $66,000 in 1933 and $181,000 in 1932. In 1931 the company earned $349,000, against $813,000 in 1930 and $1,907,000 in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1934, cash assets alone were more than six times total current liabilities. The company has no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 11,095 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 391,389 shares of $15 par common.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred. Dividends on the common are not paid at any set rate. Nothing has been paid on the stock this year. In 1934 dividends totaled 50 cents a share. Nothing was paid in 1933. In 1932 dividends were 37½ cents a share.

The preferred is rather high grade. The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Little River Drainage.

Investors' Guide: Any information you can give me regarding Little River Drainage district, Missouri, will be greatly appreciated.—O. J. T.

Answer: On March 8, 1935, the Reconstruction Finance corporation closed its loan for the benefit of bondholders of Little River Drainage district, Mo., and paid $290 per $1,000 bond to owners of more than 96 per cent of the outstanding bonds.

Bondholders who did not participate in the distribution should send their bonds to First National bank, Girardeau, Mo.

Tiger Gold.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate receiving any information concerning Tiger Gold company. The stock certificates bear the date Sept. 23, 1904. It was incorporated under the laws of the Territory of Arizona.—W. W. E.

Answer: Tiger Gold company was an Arizona corporation. Its property was sold at foreclosure and the stock was wiped out. No value was found for the stock on April 9, 1910, for inheritance tax purposes.

The stock is worthless.

NEW DEAL TAX PLAN SEEN MOVE TO HIT 'BIGNESS'

Industrialists Attack Social Policy.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Analyzing President Roosevelt's new tax proposals, the national industrial conference board, in a statement made public today, came to the conclusion that their purpose was "primarily to tax or penalize size or bigness, wherever and in whatever form it may be found."

"Regardless of the approach that is made to attempting to justify the program as a fiscal measure," the board asserted, "it is practically impossible to reach the conclusion that it is essentially a fiscal measure."

The board held that the President's message to congress, in which he set forth his new tax program, was "a complete and unqualified endorsement of the use of taxation for non-fiscal purposes."

A Convenient Instrument.

"Throughout the entire message," it added, "there is only one unimportant reference to the revenues that would be obtained if the program should be adopted. It is not a fiscal document but a statement of social and economic philosophy in the application of which taxation is to be used as a convenient instrument.

"As marked progression in the rates for the personal income tax and the estate tax has long been a feature of the federal tax system, it might appear that the President's recommendations, if adopted, would involve nothing more than extending the application of previously accepted principles. There is, however, one important distinction.

"Heretofore, emphasis has always been placed on fiscal requirements. In the war years, for example, the rates for the federal personal income tax were made more steeply progressive because of the need for additional revenues. Similarly in the post-war years the rates were revised downward when less revenue was required. In 1932 they were again increased because of the urgent need for revenues.

Furthers Social Policy.

"In all of these changes the revenue situation was the predominating influence. Progression was regarded as justifiable, but it was not used solely or primarily as a device for furthering a policy of social and economic amelioration proposed by the administration. This is the essential distinction between the federal tax policy of the last two decades and that proposed in the President's message."

O, Mr. Kettering!

Rock Island, Ill., July 16.—I have noted your efforts toward improvement of rail transportation. I have a suggestion. You are aware that the motor industry revealed the reactionary character of railroads and drove them to desperation. You are also aware that it was the motor industry that revealed what the railroads could do by removing the "ancient landmark," the steam locomotive, and replacing it with Diesel engines and cars designed to eliminate wind resistance.

Why would it not be a good idea for some big corporation, such as General Motors, to take over, for experimental purposes and as trustee, some small railroad in receivership, with a free hand to utilize experimental equipment embodying the latest designs in light weight metals, and if necessary widening the gauge of the rails. They could then see if more comfortable equipment, new conveniences and comfort, plus faster schedules, would create new business.

I believe the railroads are operated by a sort of nobility whose aim is primarily self-perpetuation. These executives are not receptive—rather, hostile—to new ideas. I nominate Mr. Kettering for the presidency of the road to be taken over.

PHILIP R. BRUNER.

Boot and Shoe Employment.

New York, July 17.—The boot and shoe manufacturing industry, employing more than 200,000 people and doing a gross business of 500 million to a billion dollars annually, was one of the first major industries to take official action on minimum wage and maximum hour standards and elimination of child labor.

Directors of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association on May 23, the day following abrogation of NRA by the Supreme court, passed such a resolution and members present agreed to post notices telling of the continuance in policy. Subsequently smaller associations formally indorsed the action of the national body.

JAY O. BALL,
Ex. Vice President,
National Boot & Shoe Manufacturers' Assn.

BUSINESS GAINS RAISE NEW HOPE IN WALL STREET

Seen as Indicating Early Autumn Recovery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—Things are looking brighter by the hour to the Wall street speculative community as the mid-summer days go by without bringing any serious trade recession and as reports on actual business conditions grow more encouraging. Around the commission houses the talk is very largely of the rising orders in steel, motors, building construction, machinery and other heavy capital goods industries, with emphasis on the indications they furnish of early autumn recovery.

Washington politics receded further and further into the background as a stock market factor, judging by the day-by-day brokerage house comment. However, traders continue to wish that congress would adjourn and go home in spite of the administration mandate.

"Soak Rich" Plan.

Moreover, the recent house revolt against the White House utilities decree and the extreme backwardness of both branches of the body to move hastily on the "soak the rich" tax program and other pending radical legislation have encouraged many to hope that the session may yet peter out without much more harmful legislation.

The stock market in such auspicious circumstances keeps plugging ahead, little by little, in spite of the occasional waves of profit taking launched against it by speculators convinced that it is due for a setback for purely technical reasons, if for no other.

Averages Cross $100 Level.

The combined averages last week crossed the $100 level for the first time this year to record a new high of 100.24 and a whole flock of favorites—nearly 200 issues all told, a sixth of the entire list—rose to new peaks for a period of four years or longer.

Industrials continued to attract the best demand, although the motors showed a fresh burst of strength. Some of the motor accessory issues performed in a sparkling manner and rail equipments attracted some favorable attention.

TO MEN WHO READ

THE ADS WITH A GRAIN OF SALT.

Our group would like to tie up with a few more good men. To fit in you must be ready for real work—plenty of it—and able to stand prosperity, handle our money and merchandise dependably, and follow our systems and policies. We are part of an extremely large national corporation; sales of our mechanical unit are growing fast; but to get along here you have to be "sold" on us first—methods, pay, merchandise management—then we have to be sold on YOU before training you and developing you, because our training school ranks with the best. We pay the bill, yet you earn as you learn. Not seasonal. A steady job.

Typical commission checks paid to men living, working with us in Chicago, west side and west suburbs, are quoted from last week's pay roll (each covers one week's work): E. A., $154.84; L. H. L., $79.62; R. B., $115; C. C., $92; J. P. S., $65.04; F. H., $92.15; W. L., $69; B. K., $69; R. F., $65; C. L., $52.44; W. B. H., $40.25; L. E. G., $46.48.

These men are here and you can meet and talk with them personally. A large, well financed program is opening up for sure. If you mean business and want something permanent, call at 250 Prairie State Bank Bldg., 3 W. Madison-st., Oak Park, Ill., Monday morning, July 22, between 10:30 and 12. Also at 2 to 3 p. m. These hours only.

If

—you can absorb new ideas quickly,
—your ears are willing and eager to do the things necessary to qualify for executive position in organization now being formed,
—you are content to start on a moderate income while qualifying for better things,
—you are between 25 and 40, neat appearing and used to meeting the public,
—you may fit into one of the several department store or other retail branches of nationally known appliance manufacturer. Commissions paid in advance weekly. Apply after 9:30 a. m., Room 234, 35 E. Wacker-dr.

WE HAVE OPENINGS

for ambitious, neat appearing young men in appliance sales work. Commission and bonus. Positions are permanent and offer opportunities for advancement. See Mr. Schutze, Room 1035, 125 S. Clark-st., 9 to 11 a. m. only. COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY.

Prospective Sales Mgrs.

Half Million Chicagoans Escape Heat at Beaches—46,000 See Cubs Win Two Games from New York Giants

WHERE 200,000 BATHERS SOUGHT REFUGE FROM HEAT WAVE YESTERDAY—Scene at the Montrose-Wilson beach, which had the largest share of the half million persons estimated to have visited Chicago's seven large beaches. The miles of lake shore line and the acres of lake front parks were the most popular retreats because the wind at times swung around to the southeast, carrying the cooling effect of the lake for short distances inland. Besides the beach throngs other thousands of Chicagoans flocked to the forest preserves and other free recreational facilities of the city and county. The official maximum temperature for the day was 90 degrees at the University of Chicago station of the weather bureau. Showers or thunderstorms were forecast for today, followed by lower temperatures. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy, the forecast said. (Story on page 3.)

OVERFLOW CROWD OF 46,000 SEES CUBS DEFEAT GIANTS TWICE—How the crowd looked at Wrigley field yesterday when the season's biggest throng of fans assembled to see their favorites sweep the four game series with the league leaders. The Cubs came from behind to win the first game, 5 to 4, in eleven innings, and then defeated the panicky Giants, 11 to 5, in the second game. By the two victories the Cubs moved up to within four games of first place.
